Union Attribute Labor Troubles to Open Shop Auto Code

WASHINGTON—Union men privately attribute many of the rapidly growing labor disturbances throughout the country to General Hugh Johnson's concession to automobile manufacturers. He let them bar closed shops in their NRA code.

Johnson has publicly admitted he erred, announced that similar clauses would be barred from all other codes. Despite these assurances, labor leaders argue, the auto code is a major factor behind recent strikes and lock-outs. The workers, they assert, have become distrustful, while the employers have stiffened their resistance to unionization.

The auto code is also causing plenty of trouble behind the scenes in the NRA itself. Over 50 of the big codes still pending have labor clauses similar to that secured by the auto industry. And so insistent are the sponsors of these codes that they be given the same treatment accorded the auto men that a jam has developed.

More Medals

General Douglas MacArthur, famous as aviator of the Bonus Army, has devised a new decoration for those serving on the General Staff of which he is still Chief.

It consists of the coat of arms of the United States superimposed on a black-enamelled star. "In each recumbent angle of the star," according to General MacArthur's orders, "three transparent green enamel laurel leaves; the shield and glory to be enamelled in colors, stripes of white and red, chief of blue, and the sky of glory blue."

The star is to be two inches in diameter. But for the Chief of Staff it is to be three inches.

This also applies to former Chiefs of Staff.

Note—General MacArthur is to retire soon.

Successful Scheme

The inside reason for the protracted delay on the coal code was a secret scheme by non-union operators to obstruct NRA negotiations while they piled up huge stocks of coal at low cost.

Hilarious stories are told by the operators of railroads, mills, and factories calling them up and saying: "Staff off that code a few days longer, will you, so we can get another 100,000 tons of your coal."

Assisting the operators in their stalling has been a group of crafty southern coal lawyers. For weeks these legal snipers have been sitting in Washington dishing up dilatory objections and grievances. Every time an understanding was effected, they had another batch of objections ready and waiting.

When there was no specific issue to be raised, they worked up imaginary ones. Half the briefs submitted by the operators on Johnson's code dealt with provisions that were not in it.

Miners' leaders, and even some of the operators, warned General Johnson that he was being taken for a ride. Frank E. Taplin, Cleveland's independent coal operator who owns both union and non-union mines, bluntly told Johnson he was being made a "mucker."

But fearful of a court fight, should the Administration use force and impose a code, Johnson grimly held to his policy of negotiating.

But what the miners want to know is this: What good will the code be after the long delay? The operators now have all the coal they need for weeks to come, can lay off thousands of men. That is the reason for the widespread walk-out in the soft coal fields.

GEN. JOHNSON OPPOSES PLAN TO FIX PRICES

Administrator Sees Defeat of NRA Plan If Policy is Followed

WARNING WRITTEN

Economic Analysis to Express His Opinion

(Copyright, 1933, by International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—A blunt warning, based upon a scientific, economic analysis, that the entire NRA program will be defeated if a policy of price-fixing is adopted, was prepared today for Hugh S. Johnson, administrator, by experts of the research and planning division.

The aggressive attitude of the economists who were brought into the NRA movement to survey its progress and analyze future trends, promised to bring the entire price-fixing issue to a climax within the next ten days.

With price fixing permitted under the oil code, but not yet fully exercised; with price maintenance also provided in both the lumber and coal codes, the issue was raised with increasing force in the present negotiations for a retail sales code.

With price fixing permitted under the oil code, but not yet fully exercised; with price maintenance also provided in both the lumber and coal codes, the issue was raised with increasing force in the present negotiations for a retail sales code.

PROVISIONS MADE

Although Johnson has consistently declared he opposed general price-fixing, if it can be avoided, he has approved the inclusion of provisions prohibiting sales below cost or fair market value.

Under the proposed retail code, which has divided retailers, economists and the NRA staff, it is proposed to prohibit sales of goods at less than wholesale cost plus ten per cent. Some exceptions are provided.

The research and planning division, which was designed to give Johnson the benefit of experts in the economic field declares in its report that price-fixing may destroy those who propose it as well as the NRA.

REPORTS FINDINGS

The report holds: The chief volume of business in the country is done in the retail field, where prosperity begins and ends.

If prices are fixed, or if code provisions permit the frequent upward fixing of prices while not permitting downward adjustments to meet diminution of purchasing power, only decrease of sales

Ex-Service Men Swamp Ford Co.

5,000 Jobs Open; Orderly Lineup of 1,500 Men Apply Tuesday Morning.

DETROIT, Sept. 19.—Ex-servicemen today continued to crowd American Legion headquarters to make application for 5,000 jobs promised by the Ford Motor company.

There was an orderly lineup of 1,500 men when application taking began this morning.

Meanwhile a new method of qualifying applicants had been mapped out by Rex Humphrey, commander of the Wayne council, now in charge of registration.

All applicants for jobs must undergo an initial questionnaire from one of the 58 post commanders of the American Legion in metropolitan Detroit. Those surviving this test were to be given letters of approval which would admit them to the Legion registration headquarters for an additional examination by Commander Humphrey. Those he passed were to be given final recommendation to the Ford Motor company.

U. S. OPENS DRIVE AGAINST BAILEY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 19.—United States Attorney Herbert K. Hyde today uncoiled the federal government's opening blast against the twelve defendants on trial for the $200,000 kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, multi-millionaire Oklahoma City oil man.

Hyde began his opening statement to the jury by reading the federal indictment charging J. Bailey and Albert L. Bates, notorious desperados, and ten others, one of them a woman, with the kidnaping of Urschel.

TWO ARE JAILED

Bertie Palm, E. Main-st., and George Griffey, W. Main-st., were awaiting hearings before Mayor B. T. Hedges, Tuesday, on charges of intoxication.

Both were arrested at 12:15 a. m. Tuesday by Officers Fred Fitzpatrick and Raymond Smith.

M'CUULOCK TO OPEN G. O. P. CAMPAIGN TO REGAIN STATE

Former Senator, In Oblivion Several Years, Studies Keynote.

TO PROTEST TAXES

Time Not Yet Set For 'Campaign Speech.'

COLUMBUS, Sept. 19.—Former U. S. Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, wealthy attorney of Canton and Coleraine, declared today that he is preparing a "keynote" speech which will shortly launch a statewide Republican campaign to reclaim the governorship and legislature from the Democrats.

McCulloch himself may come out of political retirement to make the speech, although it may be delivered by some other Republican orator.

The first shot in the campaign which will be settled by the voters at the polls in November, 1934, the speech probably will be delivered in this city. The time has not been set.

'TAX SADDLING'

Governor George White's Democratic administration will be arraigned for allegedly saddling new taxes of unnecessary character on the public and the Republicans will be called upon to present a "constructive" opposition program.

McCulloch is not writing the address on his own initiative, he said, but at the request of "various Republican leaders who feel that such a speech should be made."

Reports from the political "graveyard" that McCulloch might seek the governorship for himself were denied.

The former senator, who now resides on an estate north of Columbus, living the life of a "gentleman farmer" much of the time, stated that the "keynote" will avoid mention of candidates. "Republicans," he told International News Service, "must rise up in protest against the present state administration. The record of the legislature has been pitiful. Taxes! Taxes! Taxes!"

JEFFRIES ESTATE

An application for letters of administration to be issued to Mrs. Thomas F. Jeffries has been filed in probate court. Mrs. Jeffries is to administer the estate of her late husband and will provide bond of $15,000. As soon as the bond has been returned from Cincinnati where it was sent to be signed by Mrs. D. J. Bradley, daughter of Mrs. Jeffries, the letters will be issued by Judge C. C. Young.

Other signers of the bond are Mrs. Jeffries and Lawrence U. Jeffries.

The estate is estimated to be worth $27,500, $20,000 of which is real estate.

Appraisers are T. O. Gilliland, J. R. Noecker and John Ritt.

TRUSTEES GET VERDICT

Judge J. W. Adkins, Tuesday, ordered a verdict for the defendant in the case of Clarence T. and Lulu Dowden of Columbus against the board of trustees of Wayne-twp. The plaintiffs claimed approximately $1,000 damages as a result of an auto wreck on the Westfall-rd, last November.

Frank S. Monnett is attorney for the plaintiffs and Ray W. Davis, prosecuting attorney, defended the trustees.

SWEYER ASSIGNS

Hervy J. Sweyer, W. High-st., operator of a shoe store and repair shop, made an assignment in probate court Monday afternoon to Orion King, W. High-st. Harry B. Weaver represents the assignee.

Mr. Sweyer lists his property at $2,100.

Appraisers include H. G. Stevenson, O. S. Howard and Harvey Valentine.

PROPERTIES SOLD

The home on N. Court-st. and 160-acre farm in Walnut-twp. belonging to J. Monroe Morris, N. Court-st., were sold at an assignee's sale at the court house Monday afternoon. E. A. Brown was assignee.

The Second National Bank purchased the home at its bid of $2,910.50. It was appraised at $3,300.

The Saving Bank of Chillicothe at its bid of $50 per acre, bought the 160-acre farm in Walnut-twp. It was appraised at $40 per acre. There were three bidders on each of the properties.

Orren Updyke, of Walnut-twp., was auctioneer.

BLAZE CAUSES LIMA DAMAGE

Two Women Overcome By Smoke; Three Others Rescued This Morning.

LIMA, Sept. 19.—Two women were overcome by smoke and three others were rescued, one of them an invalid, when fire of unknown origin swept the Delsel building in the heart of downtown Lima early today, causing damages estimated at $150,000.

The blaze broke out in the basement storeroom of the J. J. Newberry Co., and spread rapidly, threatening for a time to destroy the Leader store adjoining and also the First American Bank Building.

All available firemen of the city were called out to aid in fighting the fire, which was one of the most spectacular in the history of the city.

Five women were in the building when the fire broke out. They occupied apartments in the upper stories of the structure. Two of the women were overcome by

COLVILLE ELECTED 'SHOW' TREASURER

Business Partner To Fill Vacancy Left By Death of T. F. Jeffries.

Directors of the Pumpkin Show, Monday evening, elected Robert G. Colville to fill the unexpired term of the late T. F. Jeffries as treasurer of the Pumpkin Show society.

The officers of the society are elected each year.

Mr. Colville was appointed director of Department No. 1 last week by Mayor B. T. Hedges. This post was also held by Mr. Jeffries.

Other Pumpkin Show business was discussed at the meeting with practically all details ready for the big event which opens two weeks from Wednesday.

Police Radio Plan 'Aired' To Officers

Ed. R. Wyant Talks To Officials Concerning District Transmitter.

With a site for the location of one of four radio transmitters to be installed for the advantage of law enforcement agencies in combating crime and criminals in question, Ed. R. Wyant, secretary of the bureau of investigation of the Buckeye State Sheriff's association, was in this city Monday discussing plans with local officials and other interested persons.

The site for a southern Ohio transmitter has not been definitely settled although the Federal Radio commission favors Chillicothe. A meeting to be held in Chillicothe by representatives of various counties entering the plan will determine where the station shall be located.

SERVE 16 COUNTIES

According to Mr. Wyant, 16 southern Ohio counties would be served by the transmitter. They include Pickaway, Brown, Adams, Scioto, Lawrence, Gallia, Meigs, Jackson, Pike, Ross, Vinton, Athens, Hocking, Fayette, Clinton and Highland. Half of the 16 counties have already pledged their assistance and desire to be included.

One such station is already being installed at Findlay to cover northwestern Ohio.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff is heartily in support of the system. "If Pickaway-co should not go along with the plans," he declared, "criminals from all of the southern Ohio counties will be dumped into Pickaway. Ohio now is overrun by criminals because other states have efficient police radio systems. We could not afford to be left outside."

PILOT, BADLY HURT, FOUND IN WRECK

JACKSON, Mich., Sept. 19.—Harold Neff, 25-year-old Cleveland

airmail pilot, was resting easily in Foote hospital today after three boys found him in the wreck of his plane south of here.

The pilot, with a broken leg, a broken arm and various minor injuries, had lain within a mile of the village of Leoni since he disappeared Saturday, flying from Toledo to Cleveland. Unable to drag himself away from the plane, the flier had unpacked his parachute and wrapped himself in it, against the cold.

Neff said he lost contact with the government radio beacon, and made a forced landing, believing he was in the territory south of Cleveland. Instead, he had turned completely around and had flown west from Toledo rather than east.

At the hospital it was said he would recover.

"I took off from Toledo about two o'clock Saturday morning," he said. "The ceiling was low but reports said it was higher east of Toledo. I was sure glad to hear that as I had been battling bad weather all way from Chicago to Toledo—fog, rain, mist, and all the other things that make flying tough."

"Soon after I left Toledo I lost the radio beacon. I guess it was about that time that they lost contact with me. All the time I was flying into Michigan I believed I was going straight east toward Cleveland."

"When my motor started to fail I thought I was in the vicinity of Chippewa Lake on the Cleveland-Louisville airline."

"I saw a lake below me and I thought I recognized it was Chippewa Lake." The lake he saw was Lion's mill pond.

PAINTER FALLS OFF LADDER, HURT

Harry Mumaw, Half-ave., suffered a fractured arm and bruised hip when he fell from a ladder while painting at the property of Walter Kindler, N. Court-st., Monday afternoon.

Employed by Clarence Meyers, local painting contractor, Mumaw was attempting to adjust the ladder when it slipped, throwing him to the ground. He was taken to a physician by Mr. Meyers and his injuries were treated.

Mumaw, who is 63 years of age, was taken to Berger hospital Tuesday morning for X-ray and treatment.

Gunsett Economy Plan May Eliminate 9 of Pickaway County's High Schools

Nine high schools in the county would be abolished if the Gunsett school bill passes the Ohio General Assembly. The bill provides that high schools of less than 90 pupils be abolished.

Inauguration of the six-six school plan, originally for the purpose of arranging a better course of study and so better teaching results could be accomplished, may be the means of saving a number of high schools in the county if the bill should happen to pass, although two schools which are now operating under this plan, Washington and Perry, have less than 90 pupils.

REV. SAYRE ACCEPTS M. E. PULPIT MANY COUNTY CHARGES ALTERED

Nelsonville Pastor, Close Friend of Late Rev. Eichinger, Assigned by Conference; Rev. Mantle of Ashville Goes to Mt. Sterling and Rev. Beall of Williamsport is Called to Jackson

Rev. Herman A. Sayre, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church at Nelsonville, has been appointed to fill the vacancy left in the local church by the death of Rev. Charles H. Eichinger. Assignment of Rev. Sayre to the local church was made at the conclusion of the conference session in Columbus late Monday afternoon.

It was expected Rev. Sayre would be assigned here following action by the church's official board in calling him to the local pulpit but the appointment was not certain until the conference assignments were read.

Rev. Sayre is expected to occupy the parsonage on N. Pickaway-st. some time Wednesday.

REV. EICHINGER'S FRIEND

His appointment carries a good amount of sentiment. He was a bosom friend of the late Rev. Eichinger, coming from the same section of Ohio and entering the ministry at the same time. He and Rev. Eichinger graduated from the same school and were regarded to be as close friends as any two ministers in the conference. Rev. Sayre officiated at funeral services for Rev. Eichinger in Meigs-co.

Previous to his work at Nelsonville, Rev. Sayre had served for eight years at Marietta. He had been re-invited to return to Nelsonville.

He is married and has three daughters the eldest of whom begins her work in Ohio University, Athens, this year.

He will preach his initial sermon here Sunday.

REV. MANTLE LEAVES

Pickaway-co's Methodist pulpits were changed considerably when assignments were read. Rev. W. Newton Mantle, who has just completed his third year at Ashville, has been transferred to the Mt. Sterling charge and Rev. C. W. Hoffman, at Baltimore, Fairfield-co., for the past four years, will assume the Ashville pastorage.

Rev. S. A. Beall, who has served only one year at Williamsport, has been assigned to the First Methodist church at Jackson and Rev. W. C. Moore, pastor of the Gillman-ave. M. E. church, Marietta, has been sent to Williamsport. Rev. Moore has been in Marietta four years.

Rev. Clarence Swearingen, who went to Wheelersburg from Williamsport last year, has been called to the church at Middleport.

Rev. Paul Scott, Derby M. E. minister, has been transferred to South Bloomfield to replace Rev. C. H. Morrison.

Rev. H. O. Harbaugh has been returned to New Holland.

Dr. R. O. McClure has been re-appointed superintendent of the Chillicothe district.

DR. McELFRESH RETURNS

Dr. Franklin McElfresh, former local pastor, has been re-assigned to the McKendree charge in Columbus.

Rev. V. C. Stump of Kingston, Rev. S. C. Elsea, of Tarlton, Rev. E. B. Dean of Adelphi, Rev. Ray Tucker of Clarksburg and Rev. W. G. Seaman of Lancaster have all been returned to their charges.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 19.—Leveling fire at the government's plan to aid agriculture by destroying pigs, plowing up cotton, and cutting wheat acreage, the Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today had brought its annual session to a close here.

The attack on the farm plan came when the report of the committee on moral reforms was read. Temperance, the movies, and numerous other subjects were taken up in the report, which was accepted unanimously by the conference.

The session closed late last night with the reading of pastoral assignments. Many changes were made, due partly to the need of filling three district superintendent vacancies and the entrance into the conference of 25 pastors from the central German conference.

Rev. A. G. Schatzmann was named superintendent of the Cincinnati district; Rev. C. S. Grauser, Defiance district superintendent; and Rev. R. B. Foster, Portsmouth district.

Rev. L. D. Young is pastor of the church.

Three former ministers, Revs. A. G. Crosswhite of Eaton, John Gump of New Carlisle and C. V. Coppock of Sidney, will be honored guests.

Rev. Crosswhite will deliver the afternoon address with members of the Pickaway-co Young People's department under the supervision of A. A. White providing vocal and instrumental music.

The church will be decorated with ferns and various summer flowers with dinner to be served in the church at noon.

The afternoon program begins at noon. Members of the Brethren church of Charleston, Ross-co., under Rev. Young's charge, will also attend the homecoming.

CUBAN FORCES CHASING REBELS

HAVANA, Sept. 19.—Troops loyal to the new government of President Ramon Grau San Martin this morning reoccupied the town of Moron, Camaguey province, which was seized by a small rebel band under Juan Hernandez Blas last night, it was announced today by Rafael Vira, chief of police of Moron.

The loyal troops have arrested the police force of Moron which permitted Hernandez Blas to take the town without firing a shot and are now pursuing the rebels, who number 100 men, and who are headed for Havana, 400 miles distant.

BIRDS SLUG TO WIN

Need Five Home Runs, Other Extra Base Blows To Take Contest.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 19.—Columbus' Red Birds, winners of the regular league schedule by a 15 game margin had a tough time defeating the Millers here Monday although the invaders hit five home runs, a triple and seven doubles of a crew of Miller pitchers. The game went ten innings before the Blades-men were returned the victors by a 7-5 margin.

Heath hit two homers and Delancey, Cullup and Rothrock each connected but no one was on base when either of the blows was touched. Holland and Glenn smacked four-ply clouts for the Millers the latter tying up the ball game in the ninth when two men were on base.

The Birds went on to win in the tenth when Delancey hit a home run and Heath and Anderson doubled.

Lefty Heise started for the Red Birds but Holland hit a home run and two men were on when Paul Dean, ace of the league, took up the burden. He got out of trouble and went nicely until the ninth frame. He fanned nine batters to be the winning pitcher.

Just what Columbus pitcher will start this afternoon is uncertain. It is probable that Jimmy Winford will receive the call but it is also possible Bud Tenschout will take the mound. Tenschout expects to use George Murray, big right-hander.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Buffalo's Bisons and the Rochester Red Wings were even up today

Race May End

By International News Service

Both of baseball's Major league pennant races may be decided today.

If the Giants win from St. Louis or if Pittsburgh loses to Philadelphia, the National league pennant will go to the New Yorkers.

If Washington wins from St. Louis and the New York Yankees break even in a double header against Chicago's White Sox, the Senators will annex honors in the American league.

New York in the National has ten games to play, Pittsburgh nine, and if the Giants win one more game, the Pirates could not take the flag even if they won all their remaining battles.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

IF Burgess Whitehead, is good enough to remain with the St. Louis Cardinals next summer—and indications now are that he will—a boy named Bucher who plays plenty of second base for Greensboro in the Piedmont league appears to be his logical successor in Columbus.

Young Bucher, reputed to be fast, has been doing a great job in the Piedmont. THE TEAM INCIDENTALLY WON BOTH HALVES OF THE LEAGUE RACE. From September 2 until September 8, inclusive, the Patriots as the Greensboro club is known, played nine games.

Here's Bucher's record: Two hits in four times up, one a home run; handled six chances, starting one double play;

One hit in five times up, that a double; handled five chances, starting one double play and being pivot man in another;

One hit in four times up, a single; handled 12 chances, erring on one; started a double play pivot man in another and pivot man in a triple play;

Three hits in four times up, two doubles and a home run, started another double play and was pivot man in another;

One hit in four times up, a single, and handled three chances;

One hit in four times up and handled six chances;

One hit in five chances and handled five chances.

BISHOP SQUAD NUMBERING 54

Howard White One of 17 Lettermen; Ten Game Schedule Is Faced.

DELAWARE, Sept. 19.—The biggest squad in several years is making a bid for regular berths on Ohio Wesleyan's football team this year. The squad, numbering 54, reported this week.

Coach George Gauthier will need every bit of this material for the tough 10-game schedule that confronts the Battling Bishops. It will be the first time in a quarter century that Ohio Wesleyan will play ten football games.

Opening with Heidelberg here on Sept. 30, the Bishops then will proceed through the following schedule: Oct. 6-Daytona there (night); Oct. 14-Syracuse there; Oct. 21-Wittenberg at Springfield; Oct. 28-Denison at Granville; Nov. 4-Cincinnati here (homecoming); Nov. 11-Miami here; Nov. 18-Marshall here; Nov. 25-Ohio at Athens; Nov. 30-Western Reserve at Cleveland (Thanksgiving morning).

The Wittenberg, Cincinnati, Miami, Marshall and Ohio games are Buckeye conference battles. Seventeen of the candidates are lettermen. They are Harry Barber, Buffalo, N. Y. tackle; Arthur Belt, Baltimore, O. end; Robert Forsythe, Cambridge, guard; Ray Harley, Ashtabula, end; James Hoff, Columbus, tackle; Jack McIlvain, Lakewood, center; Dave Merrill, Ravenna, guard; Harlan Mills, Warren, guard; Nelson Moore, Detroit, halfback; Edward Pape, Columbus, tackle; Robert Smith, Marion, tackle; Robert Soper, Delaware, end; John Turley, Delaware, halfback; Charles Vanervort, Portsmouth, quarterback; George Wertz, Delaware, halfback; and Howard White, Circleville, halfback.

Tigers Working For Friday Nite Lancaster Tilt

Hopeful of getting his lineup completed before Friday's game at Lancaster, Coach Pete Heberholz, Red and Black mentor, began intensive drills Monday evening.

While his backfield is shaping up nicely his line is not at all what it is expected to be, thus he is spending the greater part of his time there.

From present indications the backfield will consist of Gaines Hill, Freddie Smith, George Speakman and Norman Coleman, the latter a freshman in high school on condition. The ability of Hill, Smith and Speakman is certain but from the way things look now Coleman may be the star of the team provided he continues his hard work. A mere let-up will mean the second string squad for any of the boys touted for starting roles.

Several other athletes will break into the backfield during the Lancaster game which will be played at night.

If Monday evening's drill is a criterion Billy Steele and Bill Robinson, who has been performing at tackle, will be at the wing positions; Kenny Hill and Willis Camp will play tackle; Skaggs and Cook will be at guards and Harmon will play center. Coach Heberholz has used several youths at center and has not been able to find one who completely fills the bill. It is possible Cook may be shifted to the snapper-back role but Coach Heberholz thinks Cook is about the best blocking guard he has so is reluctant to make the change.

Several alterations may be made before time to pack up the goods for the Lancaster journey.

Word from Fairfield-co indicates the Lancaster team will be a tough nut to crack.

Stanton Jones will be the referee.

Fights Tammany

What President Roosevelt thinks of the New York political situation may be judged by the fact that his close friend, Chief Justice Frederic M. Keen (above), of the Court of Special Sessions, has announced his support of the Fusionist ticket fighting Tammany in the municipal elections. Judge Keenoch also testified before the Grand Jury investigating charges linking Tammany leaders with known racketeers.

The hero—Tex Carleton, Cardinals. Held the New York Giants to seven safeties and cracked a single to score the run that beat New York, 4 to 3. St. Louis' victory kept the Giants from officially annexing the National league pennant.

The goat—Oral Hildebrand, Cleveland. Robbed of a no-hit game when Wes Ferrel failed to run fast enough after two flies, which went for scratch hits as the Indians won from Boston's Red Sox, 9 to 0.

Packers usually increase their storage of pork from November to April and reduce that storage from April to November. This year the amount of pork in storage has continued to pile up since April.

ASHVILLE SCHOOL NEWS

The students are busy making and drawing various things for the Pumpkin Show Exhibit. It isn't very many weeks until they will be on display.

The following students in grade six were placed in the "E" arithmetic row the first week of school: Thelma Ray, Charlotte Courtright and Earl White.

Ashville high school received into it ranks this year two students from McClain high school at Greenfield, Ohio. They are Warren and Henry Steinbrook, a senior and sophomore respectively. Incidentally, they are proving quite an asset to the football team as each has secured a position on the first eleven, Warren doing service in the backfield and Henry holding down the snapper-back back post. Warren has had some experience in the game as a substitute on "Red" Armstrong's team at Greenfield.

Ellan Six and William Miller, Walnut-twp students last year, and Leona Collard of Zanesville high school are other new Ashville high school students.

For morning exercises our teacher reads to us from a book named Abe Lincoln, The Frontier Boy. She reads a chapter every morning to us.

We have Monitors to take care of our room.

We have been writing pet stories.

We are going to send them to the first and second grades.

The reporters from the fourth grade this week are: Mary Jane Higley, Joe Stanley and Richard Baum.

The teachers and students of the Ashville schools wish to thank Mr. Hott for the beautiful gladiolus which he presented to all the grade and high school rooms.

The eighth grade will use the Current Events magazine as a supplementary text in American History this year.

County Supt. Buchanan and County Attendance Officer Dum were visitors in our school for a short time Friday.

The Manual training class under the direction of Mr. Martin is preparing an exhibit for the Circleville Pumpkin Show.

Members of the 2nd grade are collecting different kinds of rocks. We are having a rock exhibit.

Mrs. William Geron of Springfield will be the speaker at the first regular P. T. A. meeting of the school year which will be held at 8:00 p. m. Thursday of this week at the high school building.

The meeting will be followed by a social hour and a representative of each family attending is requested to bring sandwiches enough for the group, preferably of meat.

FAITH IN GOLD MINE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—Faith in the future of gold mining in the famous Cripple Creek district of Colorado recently brought Lady May De Longueville De Bucy Smith from her home in Europe to aid her former husband, Frank Kurie, in the development of mining properties. Lady May De Bucy Smith divorced Kurie several years ago and later married a British subject.

The carry over of old wheat in the United States on July 1 was 386 million bushels, the largest on record and was 5 million bushels greater than the carryover on July 1, 1932.

Germany recently raised her tariff against lard importations to $15 per hundredweight, in furtherance of her live-at-home campaign.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher moved into their home on E. Main-st, which they recently bought.

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Prushing visited with her sister, Mrs. Pearl Hedges and family of Commercial Point Sunday afternoon.

Cattle Overrun Town

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo.—Residents of this once-thriving mining community are up in arms over the recent depredations of cattle, goats and other livestock. The situation reached a climax when Frank Anderson returned home from work late one afternoon to find a cow gazing at him from the window of his home.

Gold Hoarding Deadline Passes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—About a half billion dollars in gold and gold certificates was outstanding from the treasury last midnight—the deadline for hoarders making returns of their holdings to the treasury.

Fifteen days will be given by the government for the return of the gold after which prosecutions will be started, according to attorney General Cummings.

The justice department will proceed against hoarders for failure to make returns where possible. In cases where returns are made but the holders of gold refuse to return the metal to the treasury prosecutions will be based on hoarding, officials said.

320 ARE RECORDED

At the last available date there were 320 hoarders on the department of justice list who refused to turn in $1,313,500 in gold. Cummings said this number would be substantially reduced before the department started prosecutions. Prosecutions may be avoided, officials intimated, by turning in gold even though this action was taken at the last minute.

An indication as to the amount of gold that has been turned in as a result of the government's campaign was shown by federal reserve statistics. Gold reserves on Sept. 13 were $3,590,455,000 as compared with $2,892,083,000, the low point of March 1. The gold reserves are now higher than at any time in history.

MAY END GOLD

It was generally believed the government intends to impound gold permanently and cease its coinage. Officials pointed out that the use of gold as a medium of circulation is extravagant and serves no useful purpose. On the other hand, in the treasury and reserve banks it forms the basis for issuance of currency.

METAL BOOKS

ROME—Filippo Tommaso Marinetti, founder of the futurist movement, and a dynamic character in spite of his 55 years, has started a new style in book production. His latest volume of poems is being published—in metal. And on metal are the illustrations, done by the ultra futurist painter, Tullio d'Albissale.

smoke and were taken to Lima Memorial Hospital for treatment. They were Mrs. Ina Bogardus, 68, and Mrs. Lucille Walters, 38.

The three other women, one of whom was an invalid, were rescued. They were Mrs. Alice Reed, 62; Mrs. Sue Davies, 68, and Mrs. Thelma Rudolf, 22.

The fire was discovered at about 2:30 o'clock this morning by Dr. J. C. Newton, a dentist, who was working late on a laboratory experiment. Newton, a former athletic coach at Ohio Northern University, said he noticed smoke and upon investigating, discovered the fire, rapidly gaining headway.

Working with Dr. Newton was Dr. E. L. Maurer. Summoning assistance from the fire department the two dentists set out to warn the five women occupants of the building.

Two score of firemen answered the general alarm and rushed to the scene of the conflagration. All firemen who were off duty at the time were hastily mobilized to assist in fighting the flames.

Investigation to determine the cause of the fire was expected to be started by fire department officials immediately.

CLASH KILLS FOUR

VIENNA, Sept. 19.—Austria's grave political crisis reached the violent stake today with a series of clashes between opposing factions, taking a toll of four lives.

Three Nazis were shot and killed and five seriously wounded in a pitched battle at Wolfseck, upper Austria involving Nazis, Heimwehr (Fascists) and police.

TWO AGENCIES WORKING FOR PROTECTION OF CONSUMERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The agencies through which the legion of consumers now turned into actual buyers throughout the country will get protection from unwarranted price raising are exerting themselves in a manner to gain wide approval from many civic and women's organizations. In the NRA the Consumers' Advisory Board fights valiantly any suggestion at code hearings that bears upon unfair price fixing. Inasmuch as codes of some of the industries are handled by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the same zealous care is taken by the consumer's counsel of A. A. A. to safeguard the farm recovery program from being jeopardized by unreasonable prices.

The same steps which were taken to prevent gouging on bread prices from offsetting farm benefits are being followed in checking the price structure under codes of fair competition already in operation. The counselor's staff of economists has completed the first phase of a study of textile prices, summarized as follows:

1. Examples of apparently unreasonable profit-taking have been detected.
2. Vast majority of the trade, however, deserve praise for fair play.
3. Wide disparity exists in billing merchants for increases above contract prices attributable to processing taxes and employment costs.
4. Highly competitive nature of retail textile business, plus willingness of merchants to cooperate, has afforded consumers strong protection against price gouging.
5. Instances found in which manufacturers voluntarily absorbed part of processing tax cost.
6. Increase in farmers' purchasing power, still far short of A. A. A.'s goal, nevertheless reflecting itself in improved demands for cotton goods.

Proceeding on the basis of the price increases being the primary charges to get industry back on a full time, the Consumers' Advisory Board of NRA is exercising due caution in reaching conclusions as to whether retail costs are exorbitant. In very many cases there is evidence that the President's admonition to business management to "give first consideration to the improvement of operating figures by greatly increased sales to be expected from the rising power of the public" is not being followed.

Through the thousands of local business men are being reminded that this course defeats the purpose of the recovery program, for one thing, and that it is extremely poor judgment for another. The President's statement on signing NRA continued, "this is good economics and good business." Merchants as well as manufacturers are being told that the goal is resumption of normal conditions, and profiteering is no more permissible than is racketeering.

Besides being a guardian against gouging, the Board is educating consumers through the multitude of organizations with which it has established contact, in budgeting for the family and in quality buying.

CIVIL SERVICE PLANNING EXAMS.

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows:

Mimeograph Operator, $1,260 a year, less a deduction of not to exceed 15 per cent as a measure of economy and a retirement deduction of 3 1-2 per cent, departmental service, Washington, D. C., and field service. Applicants must show that they have had at least three months of full-time experience within the past three years, for which they received compensation, as mimeograph operator.

Agricultural Radio Program Manager, $3,800 to $4,600 a year, less a deduction of not to exceed 15 per cent as a measure of economy and a retirement deduction of 3 1-2 per cent, Office of Information, Department of Agriculture, San Francisco, Calif.

Principal Botanist, $5,600 a year, less a deduction of not to exceed 15 per cent as a measure of economy and a retirement deduction of 3 1-2 per cent, Office of Experiment Stations, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

All states except Delaware, Iowa, Maryland, New Hampshire, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia have received less than their share of appointments in the apportioned departmental service at Washington, D. C.

Wife of Banker Halts Kidnaping

Flees Upstairs as Gunmen Threaten to Fire; Men Run Before Police Arrive.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 19.—Failure of an attempt by five gunmen to kidnap Milton G. Newman, wealthy banker, from his home in the night was credited today to the courage of the financier's wife.

Instead of obeying the kidnappers' commands to stand still Mrs. Newman ran to the second floor of their home and screamed to her sister, Mrs. Rosa Kahn, to telephone for police.

The five gunmen fled before a police squad arrived. Newman answered the front door bell last night and found a young man facing him with drawn pistol.

"This is a kidnaping," said the gunman as he forced the banker back into the house. Four other men entered and were about to seize Newman when his wife came down stairs.

Newman told authorities he had received no threats nor had he any intimation that he had been marked as a kidnap victim.

BRAND RESIGNS SUPER CABINET

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Resignation of Charles J. Brand as co-administrator of the Agricultural act came as a bomb-shell in Washington today, marking the first major break in the super-cabinet in charge of recovery.

He asked leave to return Oct. 1 to his former duties in private life as executive and treasurer of the National Fertilizer association, from which he had been loaned to the government at the request of President Roosevelt, Secretary Wallace and George Peek, administrator of the agricultural recovery law.

WICHITA BANKER VICTIM OF CRASH

DAYTON, Sept. 19.—J. H. Stewart, 79, vice president of the First National Bank at Wichita, Kans., was dead today from injuries received when the automobile in which he was riding plunged off the road at a sharp curve near Vandalia and overturned.

Mrs. Stewart, 73, received serious injuries in the accident and John Craig, 27, a hitch-hiker from Drexel Hills, Pa., who was riding with the Stewarts, suffered a crushed arm.

volume or indefinite inflation can result.

First, if prices are fixed and purchasing power lags, there is no way for the merchant to save himself since he would have to continue to hold surplus stocks.

Second, in such a case the government could resort to progressive currency inflation which would have the effect of temporarily raising purchasing power but would cause a continued increase in prices.

SUPPORT YOUR RAILROAD

THE development of hard-surfaced highways paralleling railroads and the constantly increasing diversion of traffic, both passenger and freight, from the railways to carriers operating on the public highways, are the chief factors in causing the nation's railroads to abandon trackage at a greater rate than ever before. Here is the record:

TRACKAGE ABANDONED

1930	694 miles
1931	795 miles
1932	1,452 miles
1933	six months . 1,305 miles

The abandonment of railway mileage has disastrous effects, ramifying throughout the industry and commerce of the country. It means:

1. Unemployment among railway employees;
2. Drastic curtailment of purchases of railway materials and supplies, and in turn, unemployment for those who work in the thousands of mills and factories which supply the railroads' needs; and
3. Tremendous losses in taxes to national, state, county and local governments (taxes which must be shifted to the shoulders of the already overburdened taxpayer).

Coming closer home the Norfolk and Western Railway was recently granted conditional authority by the Interstate Commerce Commission to abandon 54 miles of a branch line in West Virginia. The line is paralleled for more than 40 miles by good or fair highways. For years its operation has resulted in steadily increasing deficits. In 1932 taxes on this line amounted to approximately $69,000 nearly $20,000 more than the total revenues accruing from the operation of the branch.

The Norfolk and Western has grown up with the territory it serves. The railroad has spent millions of dollars to aid in its development. It maintains a department of experts whose entire time is devoted to the expansion and prosperity of industry and agriculture. Certainly then the Norfolk and Western, or any other railroad for that matter, has not and will not abandon any portion of its line in any territory where continued operation is justified and where there is sound prospect of future development.

These matters vitally affect the economic and social welfare of every citizen. Therefore, the Norfolk and Western Railway cannot urge too strongly that you support your railroad and that you give serious consideration to these facts, when distributing your traffic and formulating your views on transportation matters.

Not like any other cigarette

The United States Government granted Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company the right to use "Chesterfield" for cigarettes

THIS means that the Chesterfield formula—that is, the leaf and the manufacturing formula—is different from that of other cigarettes.

For a cigarette to be milder and to taste better, it has to have in it ripe, mild, mellow tobacco, and the right quantity of the right kinds of Turkish tobacco. Then the cigarette has to be made right.

You can prove for yourself that Chesterfields are not like other cigarettes. They're milder . . . they taste better.

A Never-Ending Parade

THE big parade is now marching through America's Hall of Fame, whose corridors are witnessing their heaviest traffic in history. New heroes enter today and pass on and out tomorrow.

Herbert Clark Hoover led a general heira of once familiar political figures from their pedestals, last March, an exodus which took many into virtual oblivion and transferred others to the Hall of Infamy.

But the trek did not begin and end there. For a time after the inauguration of President Roosevelt his cabinet occupied that little radiant circle known as the spotlight, only to be crowded out later by the "Brain Trust."

The names of Raymond Moley, Rexford G. Tugwell, Adolph A. Berle and others—the "Super-cabinet"—were inscribed in large letters on the highest pedestals until the NRA campaign introduced General Johnson, Jesse H. Jones, George Peek, Arthur E. Morgan and their associates to fame.

Today only General Johnson is holding his own on the front pages of the press and those forgotten men in the president's cabinet are emerging from their seclusion to shore in the reflected glory if they must or to make some for themselves if they can.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, Secretary of War George H. Dern and Secretary of the Treasury Woodin have become articulate and the public is again able to remember that there is a cabinet and who's who in that cabinet.

The Hall of Fame has become a voracious mill drawing into its yawning maw all who have something for the common good and casting brutally aside those it no longer has use for.

Nazi Cruelty

THE ruthlessness of the German Nazis has found no better illustration than in the case of Professor Einstein, world-renowned scientist, who has been forced into hiding by fear for his life following what appeared to be reliable reports that the Nazi had placed a price on his head.

Professor Einstein's sin was his connection with the publication of a book containing a compilation of alleged victims of Nazi persecution. The scientist was one of the members of a committee which authorized publication of the book, but he says he did not write anything in it, "although I agree with its contents."

From Belgium, where he was when it was reported that an attempt to murder him would be made, the professor has gone to England and is in the home of a friend at a place not generally known to the public. There he plans to stay, at work on a new mathematical problem, until October when he intends to come to America.

The Nazis may see in his connection with the "Brown Book" justification for his death, but the world will accord him the right to protest the persecution of his race in Germany. That he has remained as calm as he has in the face of the Nazi program is remarkable and is a testimonial to the bigness of his mind. The persecution to which he is being subjected by the Nazis should alone brand the latter as criminals.

New Deal For Redmen

LANDER, Wyo.—An expedition of Sioux Indians into the land of the Shoshoni sixty years ago would have meant horse-stealing or war. Today 150 Sioux from the Rosebud reservation in South Dakota are camped near Fort Washakie on the Shoshoni reservation in a conservation corps camp. Working side by side with them the Shoshoni and Arapahoe Indians for the $1 per day allowed C. C. workers under the "new deal."

CHAPTER XXXV

"Joan, don't play with me!" What was she saying, this girl he loved? "I'm not playing," she went on in that small, tortured voice. "I just don't want—oh, please, don't be cross with me—please don't—I can't bear it when you look at me like that—"

"You don't want me to forget you, and you don't want my love. Do you know what you do want, Joan?" The coldness in his voice frightened her. She clutched him tighter. "Please don't stop liking me—"

"He looked down at her, silently. 'I won't stop liking you,' he said at last. 'I'm afraid I couldn't do that now. Not very easily. It's—too late. But you won't mind if I go now, will you? I have work to do, work that may keep me occupied for some time—'

"You're not coming back!" He freed her clinging hands. "I'll come back, Joan." He must go—get away—while he could still keep his voice steady. He stooped and kissed her once more. "Goodbye—take care of yourself!"

He was gone. Joan slipped to her knees beside the couch, buried her distorted face in the silk cushions Maisie had made, gorgeous, ticklish ones, trimmed with gold lace and flowers, remnants from the workshop.

Maisie came in from the kitchen, her hands all floury. "I heard the door shut. Isn't he going to stay for dinner? Oh, Johnnie, an' I was makin' biscuits!"

The young man from the newspaper was in the shop sketching costumes for the Spring Fashions Edition. He wore a very shiny old blue suit, and his nose was much too big. Still, he was a man, so Ruth hovered near him, chattering while he worked.

"I know a lot of newspaper men in Los Angeles," she said. "Did you know a tall, skinny fellow named... let's see... was it Shorty Carter? Something like that—he did something about baseball—"

"No, don't think so." She had a cousin who was a printer in Seattle, but he didn't know him either.

"Say, who's the tall blonde over there?" The first sign of life from him, and that about Joan. "Well, you're wasting your time getting interested in that," she said tartly. "That's Joan Hastings, and she's going to marry Curtis Barstow—so that's that. Period, paragraph—Anything else you want to know?"

He laughed and patted her hand, conveniently near. "Young attorney weds shop girl, eh?"

"I should say not—she's Madame's protégée, and she's supposed to be somebody or other—"

The young man had finished his drawings, he beamed on Ruth and went away.

Just after closing time the telephone rang. The girls had all gone so Francine answered it herself. Curtis Barstow's engagement to Joan Hastings announced! She almost dropped the receiver! A picture of the newspaper wanted a picture? Yes, she had several pictures of Miss Hastings—no, she didn't know very much about the young lady except that she was a granddaughter of some important people, Van Fleet she thought the name was. Yes, they lived in Sausalito.

After she gave the picture she wondered if she should have spoken to Joan about it first. Joan was so queer about things... better not say anything about it... let her wonder where they got it.

For an engaged girl Joan looked awfully glum. "Maybe she's worrying about what old lady Barstow will say when the story comes out." Francine thought, noting the dark circles under Joan's eyes, and the listless droop to her shoulders. "Wonder what the old lady will say?—wonder if Ma knows, and never told me, the old stinger!"

Twice she was on the point of speaking about it, but with Joan so downcast, perhaps she had better not. Better not say anything at all until it came out in the paper...

And come out it did, a beautiful society "scoop" for the young maid. A three column picture of Joan, an account of Curtis's brilliant career... "A real nice write-up," Francine declared, "especially the part about the Van Fleets. I had no idea they were so swell."

All the way home she thought about it. Pictured Maisie bursting with pride, ordering extra copies of the paper to put away in the camphor-wood chest with her wedding slippers and Gerald's baby curls... poor Ma...

But Maisie, at that moment, was engaged in no such sentimental task. "Come kitty, kitty, kitty!" She had some hamburger steak for Silver Princess, the Persian cat. "Come, kitty! No, don't drag it off the plate! Here... now you keep it on the paper." And she slipped the evening paper under the plate, thinking it was yesterday's. "I've fed your cat, Johnnie—dinner's ready!"

Lyla Barstow glanced over the papers Curtis dropped in her lap. There was just a moment before dinner. She read the headlines on the front page. Yawned, and turned to "Society"—not that there was ever anything interesting.

"Curtis!" She managed to say his name quite naturally, to point to the article and ask, "What does this mean?" before the full significance of it reached her. The glaring headline, the picture of Joan... to read it in a newspaper... get the first news of it that way... her only son's engagement...

"Why didn't you tell me?" She covered her face with her hands. "Surely you could have told... your mother!"

"Good heavens!" He dropped the paper. Picked it up again, jammed it in his pocket, grabbed his hat. "Curtis... where are you going?"

The door slammed behind him. Joan was trembling, trembling and very cold though the room heat was on and the little dining room was bright and warm. Her shaking hands, holding the newspaper Curtis had brought, were damp and clammy. She wiped one, furtively, on her skirt. "I don't understand, she kept repeating stupidly. 'I don't understand, Curtis. Why did they print it? When it isn't true, it isn't true...'

"That's what it hurts," he said in the flat, tired voice that didn't sound like his voice at all. Maisie drew in her breath sharply. A queer, whistling sound. She wanted to get away, into the kitchen, but her fat legs failed her. They wouldn't carry her away.

She might have been a wax woman for all the two at the table noticed her. They stood there with the crumpled paper spread over the cloth, one edge dribbling in a coffee cup, their eyes averted, ashamed. Curtis's face was stony and gray. Joan's chin was quivering piteously. "I don't know why they did it," Joan moaned. "I don't understand."

Why didn't Curtis say something to comfort her? Why didn't he tell her he was glad they made a mistake, the simpton, Maisie fumed. And suddenly she heard herself saying in a loud voice, "It isn't any disgrace is it? If I was a man I'd be proud to be engaged to her—"

Curtis turned, conscious of her for the first time. His mouth jerked. "I should be very proud," he said simply, "if it were true."

His eyes met Joan's. She was looking at him now, seeing his suffering, reading the appeal that he would never again put into words. He wanted it to be true... wanted it more than anything in the world... poor Curtis... wanting that... And suddenly her face was alight, her head went up proudly. She put out her hands to him, "I'd be—proud too, Curtis!" She took the first step toward him, not waiting for him to come, not caring for Maisie. "If you want me, can't it be true?" The old Joan again. Generous. Not counting costs.

"Joan, do you mean that?" "Yes—yes—" She went into his arms, laughing and crying at the same time... so happy... so happy that she had not failed him, Curtis, who wanted her so.

It was foggy, the boat that brought the evening papers to Sausalito was late. At Gerwin's garage Dolores waited for hers impatiently. She liked to read while she was getting dinner.

At last! And now she'd have to hurry, or Joe would crab again because dinner was late. She was getting sick of Joe and his yelling about food... sick of him... sick of him...

While the potatoes were boiling she sat down to read the paper, scattering the printed sheets. Sales first... spring hats at the Emporium, half price... let's see what Heller's had...

The water boiled out of the saucepan. The stench of scorched potatoes filled the little clabboard house. Dolores lay face downward on her bed, the article she had cut out with a hairpin, clenched in her hand.

When Gerwin came home she was on her way to the postoffice, clutching a square pink envelope to her heart. Her eyes glistened unnaturally, a strand of her dark hair escaped from her hat, giving her a wild, demoniacal look. Two little girls, frightened and fascinated, followed at a discreet distance...

Mis' Gerwin's hair was falling down, and she was talking to herself. "Took the man I loved away from me... thought you was smart... I'll show you now... I'll pay you back..."

It was addressed to Curtis Barstow, Kennedy, Hart and Barstow, Attorneys, and because it was on pink paper the office boy put it with the personal mail, though it might be business after all.

Curtis slit the envelope with the quick, precise movement of a man habituated with him. Opened the scrawled sheets, read them with amazement and disgust.

Dear Friend— I take this opportunity to warn you before it is too late. Joan Hastings stole my lover and broke my heart and his, she will break yours too and disgrace you like at the end of her own family. If you don't want a life of misery get rid of her before it is too late. She was expelled from school on account of her actions. She run away with a sailor when she was on a ship. Besides other things she did. The sailor was from Goat Island.

"A Friend." "Whew! Wonder what crank wrote that!" He dropped it gingerly into the waste basket. "Dirty crook!" His face darkened. To think that Joan, white, innocent, silvery, sweet, the victim of a silly, anonymous letter like that. I'd like to wring his neck—or her neck—whoever wrote it—

Sausalito! It was postmarked Sausalito, Joan's old home. So that was it, no poor, demented crank after all... a deliberate attempt to make trouble... He picked the pink sheets up again, read them over. Some illiterate, malicious woman, a discharged servant, perhaps. He stuffed it into his pocket. He'd ask Joan if there was someone who might wish her ill.

But he never thought of it again. Whenever he saw Joan he forgot everything but the wonder of her, the miracle of their love, Joan, sweet, beautiful Joan to be his...

He walked on air. He couldn't believe that he had really won her, the girl of his dreams. (To Be Continued Tomorrow)

Insect Bites Not to Be Ignored

A Serious Infection May Result, So Do Not Neglect Them

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

FEW THINGS are more annoying than the bite of a mosquito or other insect. The sting usually leads to the sudden appearance on the skin of a firm, whitish patch surrounded by a reddish area. Often insect bites lead to great discomfort and pain.

As a rule, the common mosquito bite produces temporary annoyance. But the bite of an insect like the "red-bug," or "jigger," may prove to be more serious.

These pests are small, difficult to distinguish and are usually encountered in the grass and weeds of pastures and meadows.

Bite of a "Jigger"

If you have ever suffered from such a bite you will agree with me when I say it is a painful and distressing affliction. Red blotches appear upon the skin and these may assume the size of a silver half-dollar. Nausea and fever may complicate the picture. A blister forms at the point of the bite and when this ruptures there is always the danger of secondary infection.

Never neglect a jigger bite. A warm bath is beneficial. After bathing apply baking soda to the bite by dabbing it on like talcum powder. At times a weak solution of ammonia lessens the pain and discomfort.

When the blisters break avoid contact with soiled linen or clothes. Keep a sterile gauze bandage on the open blister until it has healed. A mild soothing antiseptic ointment can be applied.

Another painful insect bite is that of the black spider. This insect is frequently seen around barns and such. Whenever possible my advice is to avoid this insect, as its bite is painful and really dangerous.

The bite produces stinging and sharp pain. The local symptoms subside but within a short time the victim complains of agonizing pain throughout the body. Cold sweats, difficulty in breathing, nausea and vomiting are other signs of the disturbance. In severe cases delirium and convulsions of a violent and alarming nature may occur.

Insect bites are common during the summer and fall months. Immediate medical attention is advisable since the outcome of the bite may be serious. Never neglect a bite of some unknown insect, no matter how trivial it appears to you.

MOVIES COUNTY BILLS ARE REPORTED

Realism is carried to its very extreme in Columbia's sensational underwater drama, "Below The Sea," showing at the Grand Theatre Wednesday. Take this scene for an illustration.

On the ocean's floor, in a great diving bell, are a man and a woman, facing death. The chain that lowered the bell has been broken—shaken apart by a giant octopus. Their air lines and telephone-lines have been severed.

Through the glass window of their bell they watch a duel to death between the octopus and a diver—Ralph Bellamy going through with this dangerous performance.

Now, in these days of photographic miracles, this dramatic high-point of "Below The Sea" might well have been pictured in the safety of a studio set. But, not so with these scenes, which Al Rogell directed from Jo Swerling's original story.

AT THE CLIFTONA
Sensitive, appealing "Jennie Gerhardt," that absorbing character created by Theodore Dreiser, America's foremost novelist, comes to life today and tomorrow on the screen of the Cliftona Theatre, where Paramount's picture of that title is the wistful eyes, earns her first star billing in the title role of this B. P. Schulberg production, which Marion Gering directed.

In this picture, she earns her right to be a star. Her characterization of the immortal Jennie Gerhardt contains the essence of Dreiser's conception of this tremendous role. Tenderly, sympathetically, she traces the life of the most talked of woman in American fiction. Jennie Gerhardt epitomizes all womanhood; that was unquestionably Theodore Dreiser's conception of the character. Miss Sidney's impersonation has a like interpretation as its motivation. A beautiful, sensitive girl, reared in the most abject poverty, is forced by the misery of her family to accept the advances of those who can help financially. Time after time, despite her own inclinations, the irresistible forces of life itself break down her morale, drive her on through desperation to an inescapable end.

LUCK
BUTTE, Mont.—A diamond valued at $375, lay for three hours on the sidewalk of a busy downtown Butte street while hundreds of pedestrians passed. Miss Mabel Howe discovered the stone had slipped from her ring, returned to the spot and picked up her diamond.

Teague, Swope and Kirstein are giving their time and labor to the government entirely without compensation. They are to be found in stuffy little NRA offices from early morning until late at night. General Hugh Johnson characterizes them as "pillar stones" of his organization.

Receiving the British Cousin

By IRVIN S. COBB

FOR several crowded, reasonably happy years I worked on the city staff of the New York Evening World. Harry Stowe was a fellow-reporter of mine and one of my best friends in or out of the newspaper game.

He died not so very long ago, leaving behind him a record crowded with editorial accomplishments. They tell tales, too, of another side of his nature. He was by way of being an incurable practical joker.

Once upon a time Stowe had charge of the Tenderloin office of the paper. His headquarters was in the heart of the theatre and hotel district, then centering about Herald Square. On the other side of the street, and almost directly opposite, was the branch office of another evening paper. Over the way one morning there appeared a freshly recruited member of the staff of the opposition sheet. The newcomer was a tall Englishman. I think it was this man's patronizing manner when he met Stowe that afternoon, rather than his monochrome or his accent, which immediately aroused on Stowe's part an antagonism for the Britisher whose name, let us say, was Slocum.

On the following day, Stowe called up the opposition office on the telephone and in a disguised voice said he wished to speak to Slocum.

"This is the city desk downtown," he stated when Slocum answered. "We've just got a tip that the Duke of Devonshire is stopping at the Hotel Durham two or three blocks from where you are now. Hurry right round to the Durham and insist on seeing the duke and get a good snappy interview with him."

Stowe rang off and immediately rang up the Hotel Durham and asked for the proprietor, a brawny Kentuckian who had lately come up from the South.

"Is that you, So-and-so?" inquired Stowe. "Well, this is Cassidy, manager of the Hotel Madrid, speaking. There's a crazy Englishman making the rounds with a mania that he has to see the Duke of Devonshire. He came in about ten minutes ago and asked for the Duke and when the room-clerk told him no such person was here he started the biggest rough-house you ever saw—almost wrecked the place. It took three husky porters to throw him out. After they'd thrown him out and as he was going away, one of the porters heard him muttering to himself that he was bound for your hotel next. He's a tall sandy-haired chap—wears a monochrome and talks like the boiled-down essence of Piccadilly. If I were you I'd have a couple of strong-arm chaps waiting at the desk and the moment he asked for the Duke of Devonshire I'd let that be the cue for them to grab him and throw him out in the street."

"Thanks," said the Kentuckian. "Don't worry—we'll be organized for him when he comes."

Fifteen minutes later, the battered and disheveled Slocum dragged himself back into his office to report by telephone to a perplexed superior that if these barbarous practices existed generally in America he intended to resign his position and return overseas to a civilized clime upon the next steamer.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a Scotchman that run a store in a town in Illinois. The American that ran the store across the street used to get ahead of the Scotchman by advertising some free gift. Every time the American would have one of these gift days, when he would give every customer a stick of gum or something like that, Sandy would get sick and have to stay away from his store for a day or two, and that would be good medicine for the American.

One day the American put up a big sign, and it said:

Next Saturday
A Top
Will Be Given
Free
To Every Boy Under Twelve Who Visits This Store, Accompanied by Parent.

Well, sir, the Scotchman was sick at first, but he came down to the store and put up this here sign:

Next Saturday
A Corned Pipe
Will Be Given
Free
To Every Man Over Seventy Who Visits This Store, Accompanied by Parents.

NEWS OF HOMES AND HOME FOLKS

VOL. 4. NO. 38 Published by STEVENSON'S Tuesday, September 19, 1933

Just because we're always telling you about the nice bouquets that folks hand out to us don't think that we never get any "alley bouquets." We just don't tell you about that kind. Another lovely bouquet was handed the "editor" of RTT the other day. Our friends and customers, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. up in the northwest section of the county, told us that they greatly enjoyed reading our RTT. We're just real pleased to know that folks do like to read our little "bragging." We get a kick out of writing them, we assure you.

The folks mentioned above are users of Estate Heatrola and have been for the past four winters. The fact that we are still friends must be evidence sufficient to prove that they are satisfied users.

A shipment of felt-base floor-covering, consisting of rugs and yard goods, arrived just a couple of days ago. Talk about pretty patterns! You should see them.

Early in the summer, we sold a Perfection Ivanhoe oil-burning cook-stove to Mrs. McN., out in the east end of Roundtown. She was in a couple of days ago and told us how well pleased she was with her purchase. To tell you the honest facts about these kerosene stoves, we've never heard a customer complain about them. All users have been perfectly satisfied.

Speaking of cooking appliances, Mrs. G— informed us last week that she had used her Pyrofax gas range for cooking, baking, and canning and that one tank of the gas lasted her through three months of this service. And is she delighted with her Pyrofax range and outfit! Just ask her. Even though her home is not on a natural gas main, she has the same advantage of gas cooking that is enjoyed by city dwellers.

Lovers of beautifully designed, finished, and constructed furniture should see that Duncan Phyffe suite that came in last Friday. However, what's the use to tell you about it? By the time that you receive this copy of RTT, a family in this city will be enjoying it in their dining room. However, we'll soon have another one, and will then tell you about it.

For those wishing a breakfast set, we have just received a mighty nifty set in green oak, extension table and four "Dutch" type chairs. To appreciate its beauty, strength, and comfort, you should not only see it, but you should sit on one of the chairs. In street parlance, "it's a bird."

Your linoleum will last longer and be more easily cleaned if you keep it coated with our linoleum lacquer.

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Union Attribute Labor Troubles to Open Shop Auto Code

WASHINGTON—Union men privately attribute many of the rapidly growing labor disturbances throughout the country to General Hugh Johnson's concession to automobile manufacturers. He let them bar closed shops in their NRA code.

Johnson has publicly admitted he erred, announced that similar clauses would be barred from all other codes. Despite these assurances, labor leaders argue, the auto code is a major factor behind recent strikes and lock-outs. The workers, they assert, have become distrustful, while the employers have stiffened their resistance to unionization.

The auto code is also causing plenty of trouble behind the scenes in the NRA itself. Over 50 of the big codes still pending have labor clauses similar to that secured by the auto industry. And so insistent are the sponsors of these codes that they be given the same treatment accorded the auto men that a jam has developed.

More Medals

General Douglas MacArthur, famous as victor of the Bonus Army, has devised a new decoration for those serving on the General Staff of which he is still Chief.

It consists of the coat of arms of the United States superimposed on a black-enamelled star. "In each re-entrant angle of the star," according to General MacArthur's orders, "three transparent green enameled laurel leaves; the shield and glory to be enameled in colors, stripes of white and red, chief of blue, and the sky of glory blue."

The star is to be two inches in diameter. But for the Chief of Staff it is to be three inches.

This also applies to former Chiefs of Staff.

Note—General MacArthur is to retire soon.

Successful Scheme

The inside reason for the protracted delay on the coal code was a secret scheme by non-union operators to obstruct NRA negotiations while they piled up huge stocks of coal at low cost.

Hilarious stories are told by the operators of railroads, mills, and factories calling them up and saying: "Stall out that code a few days longer, will you, so we can get another 100,000 tons of your coal."

Assisting the operators in their stalling has been a group of crafty southern coal lawyers. For weeks these legal snipers have been sitting in Washington dishing up dilatory objections and grievances. Every time an understanding was effected, they had another batch of objections ready and waiting.

When there was no specific issue to be raised, they worked up various ones. Half the briefs submitted by the operators on Johnson's code dealt with provisions that were not in it.

Miners' leaders, and even some of the operators, warned General Johnson that he was being taken for a ride. Frank E. Taplin, Cleveland's independent coal operator who owns both union and non-union mines, bluntly told Johnson he was being made a "sucker."

But fearful of a court fight, should the Administration use force and impose a code, Johnson grimly held to his policy of negotiating.

But what the miners want to know is this: What good will the code be after the long delay? The operators now have all the coal they need for weeks to come, can lay off thousands of men. That is the reason for the widespread walk-out in the soft coal fields.

GEN. JOHNSON OPPOSES PLAN TO FIX PRICES

Administrator Sees Defeat of NRA Plan If Policy is Followed

WARNING WRITTEN

Economic Analysis to Express His Opinion

(Copyright, 1933, by International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—A blunt warning, based upon a scientific, economic analysis, that the entire NRA program will be defeated if a policy of price-fixing is adopted, was prepared today for Hugh S. Johnson, administrator, by experts of the research and planning division.

The aggressive attitude of the economists who were brought into the NRA movement to survey its progress and analyze future trends, promised to bring the entire price-fixing issue to a climax within the next ten days.

With price fixing permitted under the old code, but not yet fully exercised, with price maintenance also provided in both the lumber and coal codes, the issue was raised with increasing force in the present negotiations for a retail sales code.

PROVISION MADE

Although Johnson has consistently declared he opposed general price-fixing, it can be avoided, he has approved the inclusion of provisions prohibiting sales below cost or fair market value.

Under the proposed retail code, which has divided retailers, economists and the NRA staff, it is proposed to prohibit sales of goods at less than wholesale cost plus ten per cent. Some exceptions are provided.

The research and planning division, which was designed to give Johnson the benefit of experts in the economic field declares in its report that price-fixing may destroy those who propose it as well as the NRA.

REPORTS FINDINGS

The report holds: The chief volume of business in the country is done in the retail field, where prosperity begins and ends.

If prices are fixed, or if code provisions permit the frequent upward fixing of prices while not permitting downward adjustments to meet diminution of purchasing power, only decrease of sales

Ex-Service Men Swamp Ford Co.

5,000 Jobs Open; Orderly Lineup of 1,500 Men Apply Tuesday Morning.

DETROIT, Sept. 19.—Ex-servicemen today continued to crowd American Legion headquarters to make application for 5,000 jobs promised by the Ford Motor company.

There was an orderly lineup of 1,500 men when application taking began this morning.

Meanwhile a new method of qualifying applicants had been mapped out by Rex Humphrey, commander of the Wayne council, now in charge of registration.

All aspirants for jobs must undergo an initial questionnaire from one of the 58 post commanders of the American Legion in metropolitan Detroit. Those surviving this test were to be given letters of approval which would admit them to the Legion registration headquarters for an additional examination by Commander Humphrey.

Those he passed were to be given final recommendation to the Ford Motor company.

U. S. OPENS DRIVE AGAINST BAILEY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 19.—United States Attorney Herbert K. Hyde today unleased the federal government's opening blast against the twelve defendants in trial for the $200,000 kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, multi-millionaire Oklahoma City oil man.

Hyde began his opening statement to the jury by reading the federal indictment charging J. Bailey and Albert L. Bates, notorious desperados, and ten others, one of them a woman, with the kidnaping of Urschel.

Former Senator, In Oblivion Several Years, Studies Keynote.

TO PROTEST TAXES

Time Not Yet Set For 'Campaign Speech.'

COLUMBUS, Sept. 19.—Former U. S. Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, wealthy attorney of Canton and Columbus, declared today that he is preparing a "keynote" speech which will shortly launch a statewide Republican campaign to reclaim the governorship and legislature from the Democrats.

McCulloch himself may come out of political retirement to make the speech, although it may be delivered by some other Republican orator.

The first shot in the campaign which will be settled by the voters at the polls in November, 1934, the speech probably will be delivered in this city. The time has not been set.

"TAX SADDLING" Governor George White's Democratic administration will be arraigned for allegedly saddling new taxes of unnecessary character on the public and the Republicans will be called upon to present a "constructive" opposition program.

McCulloch is not writing the address on his own initiative, he said, but at the request of various Republican leaders who feel that such a speech should be made.

Reports from the political "grapevine" that McCulloch might seek the governorship for himself were denied.

The former senator, who now resides on an estate north of Columbus, living the life of a "gentleman farmer" much of the time, stated that the "keynote" will avoid mention of candidates. "Republicans," he told International News Service, "must rise up in protest against the present state administration. The record of the legislature has been pitiful. Taxes! Taxes! Taxes!"

JEFFRIES ESTATE

An application for letters of administration to be issued to Mrs. Thomas F. Jeffries has been filed in probate court. Mrs. Jeffries is to administer the estate of her late husband and will provide bond of $15,000. As soon as the bond has been returned from Cincinnati where it was sent to be signed by Mrs. D. J. Bradley, daughter of Mrs. Jeffries, the letters will be issued by Judge C. C. Young.

Other signers of the bond are Mrs. Jeffries and Lawrence U. Jeffries.

The estate is estimated to be worth $27,500, $20,000 of which is real estate.

Appraisers are T. O. Gilliland, J. R. Noecker and John Ritt.

TRUSTEES GET VERDICT

Judge J. W. Adkins, Tuesday, ordered a verdict for the defendants in the case of Clarence T. and Lulu Dowden of Columbus against the board of trustees of Wayne-twp. The plaintiffs claimed approximately $1,000 damages as a result of an auto wreck on the Westfall rd. last November.

Frank S. Monnett is attorney for the plaintiffs and Ray W. Davis, prosecuting attorney, defended the trustees.

SWEYER ASSIGNS

Hervey J. Sweyer, W. High-st., operator of a shoe store and repair shop, made an assignment in probate court Monday afternoon to Orin King, W. High-st. Harry B. Weaver represents the assignee.

Mr. Sweyer lists his property at $2,100.

Appraisers include H. G. Stevenson, O. S. Howard and Harvey Valentine.

PROPERTIES SOLD

The home on N. Court-st. and 160-acre farm in Walnut-twp. belonging to J. Monroe Morris, N. Court-st., were sold at an assignee's sale at the court house Monday afternoon. E. A. Brown was assignee.

The Second National Bank purchased the home at its bid of $2,910.50. It was appraised at $3,300.

The Saving Bank of Chillicothe at its bid of $50 per acre, bought the 160-acre farm in Walnut-twp. It was appraised at $10 per acre. There were three bidders on each of the properties.

Orren Udyke, of Walnut-twp., was auctioneer.

BLAZE CAUSES LIMA DAMAGE

Two Women Overcome By Smoke; Three Others Rescued This Morning.

LIMA, Sept. 19.—Two women were overcome by smoke and three others were rescued, one of them an invalid, when fire of unknown origin swept the Deist building in the heart of downtown Lima early today, causing damages estimated at $150,000.

The blaze broke out in the basement storeroom of the J. J. Newberry Co., and spread rapidly, threatening for a time to destroy the Leader store adjoining and also the First American Bank Building.

All available firemen of the city were called out to aid in fighting the fire, which was one of the most spectacular in the history of the city.

Five women were in the building when the fire broke out. They occupied apartments in the upper stories of the structure. Two of the women were overcome by smoke.

Police Radio Plan 'Aired' To Officers

Ed. R. Wyant Talks To Officials Concerning District Transmitter.

With a site for the location of one of four radio transmitters to be installed for the advantage of law enforcement agencies in combating crime and criminals in question, Ed. R. Wyant, secretary of the bureau of investigation of the Buckeye State Sheriffs' association, was in this city Monday discussing plans with local officials and other interested persons.

The site for a southern Ohio transmitter has not been definitely settled although the Federal Radio commission favors Chillicothe. A meeting to be held in Chillicothe by representatives of various counties entering the plan will determine where the station shall be located.

SERVE 16 COUNTIES

According to Mr. Wyant, 16 southern Ohio counties would be served by the transmitter. They include Pickaway, Brown, Adams, Scioto, Lawrence, Gallia, Meigs, Jackson, Pike, Ross, Vinton, Athens, Hocking, Fayette, Clinton and Highland. Half of the 16 counties have already pledged their assistance and desire to be included.

One such station is already being installed at Findlay to cover northwestern Ohio.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff is heartily in support of the system. "If Pickaway-co. should not go along with the plans," he declared, "criminals from all of the southern Ohio counties will be dumped into Pickaway. Ohio now is overrun by criminals because other states have efficient police radio systems. We could not afford to be left outside."

PILOT, BADLY HURT, FOUND IN WRECK

JACKSON, Mich., Sept. 19.—A pilot, 25-year-old Cleveland pilot, was resting easily in a hospital today after three boys found him in the wreck of his plane south of here.

The pilot, with a broken leg, a broken arm and various minor injuries, had lain within a mile of the village of Leoni since he disappeared Saturday, flying from Toledo to Cleveland. Unable to drag himself away from the plane, the flier had unpacked his parachute and wrapped himself in it, against the cold.

Neff said he lost contact with the government radio beacon, and made a forced landing, believing he was in the territory south of Cleveland. Instead, he had turned completely around and had flown west from Toledo rather than east.

At the hospital it was said he would recover.

"I took off from Toledo about two o'clock Saturday morning," he said. "The ceiling was low but reports said it was higher east of Toledo. I was sure glad to hear that as I had been battling bad weather all way from Chicago to Toledo—fog, rain, mist, and all the other things that make flying tough."

"Soon after I left Toledo I lost the radio beacon. I guess it was about that time that they lost contact with me. All the time I was flying into Michigan I believed I was going straight east toward Cleveland."

"When my motor started to fail I thought I was in the vicinity of Chippewa Lake on the Cleveland-Louisville airline."

"I saw a lake below me and I thought I recognized it as Chippewa Lake." The lake he saw was Lion's mill pond.

PAINTER FALLS OFF LADDER, HURT

Harry Mumaw, Half-ave., suffered a fractured arm and bruised hip when he fell from a ladder while painting at the property of Walter Kindler, N. Court-st., Monday afternoon.

Employed by Clarence Meyers, local painting contractor, Mumaw was attempting to adjust the ladder when it slipped, throwing him to the ground. He was taken to a physician by Mr. Meyers and his injuries were treated.

Mumaw, who is 63 years of age, was taken to Berger hospital Tuesday morning for X-ray and treatment.

Gunsett Economy Plan May Eliminate 9 of Pickaway County's High Schools

Nine high schools in the county would be abolished if the Gunsett school bill passes the Ohio General Assembly. The bill provides that high schools of less than 90 pupils be abolished.

Inauguration of the six-six school plan, originally for the purpose of arranging a better course of study and so better teaching results could be accomplished, may be the means of saving a number of high schools in the county if the bill should happen to pass, although two schools which are now operating under this plan, Washington and Perry, have less than 90 pupils.

THIRD CHURCH SESSION HERE

Rev. Toensmeier Announces Presbytery To Meet Here In Spring.

EIGHTY DELEGATES

United Brethren, Lutherans Also Select City.

A third big church meeting to be held next year in this city was announced Tuesday by Rev. Emil S. Toensmeier, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who said the spring meeting of the Columbus Presbytery has been assigned to Circleville.

The meeting will be held in April with 80 delegates to be present. An invitation to hold the spring meeting here was issued Monday when Rev. Toensmeier with J. O. Haglund attended a meeting at Gahanna.

The matter of reducing the number of Presbyteries from 15 to 7 was discussed at the meeting but met with much opposition because of the proportion of the reduction.

The southeast Ohio conference of the United Brethren church and the Ohio Synod meeting of the American Lutheran church will be held here next September.

Nelsonville Pastor, Close Friend of Late Rev. Eichinger, Assigned by Conference; Rev. Mantle of Ashville Goes to Mt. Sterling and Rev. Beall of Williamsport is Called to Jackson

Rev. Herman A. Sayre, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church at Nelsonville, has been appointed to fill the vacancy left in the local church by the death of Rev. Charles H. Eichinger. Assignment of Rev. Sayre to the local church was made at the conclusion of the conference session in Columbus late Monday afternoon.

It was expected Rev. Sayre would be assigned here following action by the church's official board in calling him to the local pulpit but the appointment was not certain until the conference assignments were read.

Rev. Sayre is expected to occupy the parsonage on N. Pickaway-st. some time Wednesday.

REV. EICHINGER'S FRIEND

His appointment carries a good amount of sentiment. He was a bosom friend of the late Rev. Eichinger, coming from the same section of Ohio and entering the ministry at the same time. He and Rev. Eichinger graduated from the same school and were regarded to be as close friends as any two ministers in the conference. Rev. Sayre officiated at funeral services for Rev. Eichinger in Meigs-co.

Previous to his work at Nelsonville, Rev. Sayre had served for eight years at Marietta. He had been re-invited to return to Nelsonville.

He is married and has three daughters the eldest of whom begins her work in Ohio University, Athens, this year.

He will preach his initial sermon here Sunday.

REV. MANTLE LEAVES

Pickaway-co's Methodist pulpits were changed considerably when assignments were read. Rev. W. Newton Mantle, who has just completed his third year at Ashville, has been transferred to the Sterling charge and Rev. C. W. Hoffman, at Baltimore, Md., for the past year, has been assigned to the Ashville charge.

Rev. S. A. Beall, who has served only one year at Williamsport, has been assigned to the First Methodist church at Jackson and Rev. W. C. Moore, pastor of the Gilman-ave M. E. church, Marietta, has been sent to Williamsport. Rev. Moore has been in Marietta four years.

Clarence Swearingen, who went to Williamsport from Williamsport last year, has been called to the church at Middleport.

Rev. Paul Scott, Derby M. E. minister, has been transferred to South Bloomfield to replace Rev. C. H. Morrison.

Rev. H. O. Harbaugh has been returned to New Holland.

Dr. R. O. McClure has been re-appointed superintendent of the Chillicothe district.

DR. McFRESH RETURNS

Dr. Franklin McFresh, former local pastor, has been re-assigned to the McKendree charge in Columbus.

Rev. V. C. Stump of Kingston, Rev. S. C. Elisea, of Tarkenton, Rev. E. B. Dean of Adelphi, Rev. Ray Tucker of Clarksville and Rev. W. G. Seaman of Lancaster have all been returned to their charges.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 19.—Leveling fire at the government's plan to aid agriculture by destroying rice, plowing up cotton, and cutting wheat acreage, the Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today had brought its annual session to a close here.

The attack on the farm plan came when the report of the committee on moral reforms was read. Temperance, the movies, and numerous other subjects were taken up in the report, which was accepted unanimously by the conference.

The session closed late last night with the reading of pastoral assignments. Many changes were made, due partly to the need of filling three district superintendent vacancies and the entrance into the conference of 25 pastors from the central German conference.

BIRDS SLUG TO WIN

Five Home Runs, Other Extra Base Blows To Take Contest.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 19.—Columbus Red Birds, winners of the regular league schedule by a 15 game margin had a tough time defeating the invaders hit five home runs, a triple and seven doubles of a crew of Miller pitchers. The game went ten innings before the Blades-men were returned the victors by a 7-5 margin.

Heath hit two homers and Delancey, Cullop and Rothrock each connected but no one was on base when either of the blows was touched. Holland and Gleen smacked four-pipe clouts for the Millers, the latter tying up the ball game in the ninth when two men were on base.

The Birds went on to win in the tenth when Delancey hit a home run and Heath and Anderson doubled.

Lefty Heise started for the Red Birds but Holland hit a home run and two men were on when Paul Dean, ace of the league, took up the mound. He got out of trouble so nicely until the ninth.

He fanned nine batters to winning pitcher. What Columbus pitcher did this afternoon fray is not known. It is probable that Jimmy Whitford will receive the call but it is also possible Bud Teahout will take the mound. Teahout expects to use George Murray, big right-hander.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Rochester Bisons and the Rochester Red Wings were even up today.

Champion's Greatest Reward

Greater than the title he had successfully defended and greater than the plaudits of the throng who watched his fight, was this greeting of Barney Ross by his mother, who traveled from Chicago to see her son do battle in defense of the lightweight title against Tony Canzoneri at New York Polo Grounds. Photo was made in Ross's dressing room after his victory.

Race May End

By International News Service

Both of baseball's major league pennant races may be decided today.

If the Giants win from St. Louis or if Pittsburgh loses to Philadelphia, the National league pennant will go to the New Yorkers.

If Washington wins from St. Louis and the New York Yankees break even in a double header against Chicago's White Sox, the Senators will annex honors in the American league.

New York in the National has ten games to play, Pittsburgh nine, and if the Giants win one more game, the Pirates could not take the flag even if they won all their remaining battles.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

I Burgess Whitehead, is good enough to remain with the St. Louis Cardinals next summer and indications now are that he will—a boy named Bucher who plays plenty of second base for Greensboro in the Piedmont league appears to be his logical successor in Columbus.

Young Bucher, reputed to be fast, has been doing a great job in the Piedmont * * * THE TEAM INCIDENTALLY WON BOTH HALVES OF THE LEAGUE RACE * * * From September 2 until September 8, inclusive, the Patriots as the Greensboro club is known, played nine games.

Here's Bucher's record:
Two hits in four times up, one a home run; handled six chances, starting one double play;

One hit in five times up, that a double; handled five chances, starting one double play and being pivot man in another;

One hit in four times up, a single; handled 12 chances, erring on one; started a double play, pivot man in another and pivot man in a triple play;

Three hits in four times up, two doubles and a home run, started another double play and was pivot man in another;

One hit in four times up, a single, and handled three chances; One hit in four times up and handled six chances;

One hit in five chances and handled five chances.

His batting average during the nine games was a fraction less than .367.

BISHOP SQUAD NUMBERING 54

Howard White One of 17 Lettermen; Ten Game Schedule Is Faced.

DELAWARE, Sept. 19.—The biggest squad in several years is making a bid for regular berths on Ohio Wesleyan's football team this year. The squad, numbering 54, reported this week.

Coach George Gauthier will need every bit of this material for the tough 10-game schedule that confronts the Battling Bishops. It will be the first time in a quarter century that Ohio Wesleyan will play ten football games.

Opening with Heidelberg here on Sept. 30, the Bishops then will proceed through the following schedule: Oct. 6-Dayton there (night); Oct. 14-Syracuse there; Oct. 21-Wittenberg at Springfield; Oct. 28-Denison at Granville; Nov. 4-Cincinnati here (homecoming); Nov. 11-Miami here; Nov. 18-Marshall here; Nov. 25-Ohio at Athens; Nov. 30-Western Reserve at Cleveland (Thanksgiving morning).

The Wittenberg, Cincinnati, Miami, Marshall and Ohio games are Buckeye conference battles. Seventeen of the candidates are lettermen. They are Harry Barber, Buffalo, N. Y., tackle; Arthur Belt, Baltimore, O., end; Robert Forsythe, Cambridge, guard; Ray Harley, Ashtabula, end; James Hoff, Columbus, tackle; Jack McIlvain, Lakewood, center; Dave Merrill, Ravenna, guard; Harlan Mills, Warren, guard; Nelson Moore, Detroit, halfback; Edward Pape, Plyria, guard; Frank Sayers, Columbus, tackle; Robert Smith, Marion, tackle; Robert Soper, Delaware, end; John Turley, Delaware, halfback; Charles Vanervort, Portsmouth, quarterback; George Wertz, Delaware, halfback; and Howard White, Circleville, halfback.

Formerly, one hog out of every six grown in the Corn Belt of the United States was wanted in Europe. Europe no longer wants that sixth hog, but the Corn Belt farmer still raises it.

Tigers Working For Friday Nite Lancaster Tilt

Hopeful of getting his lineup completed before Friday's game at Lancaster, Coach Pete Heberholz, Red and Black mentor, began intensive drills Monday evening. While his backfield is shaping up nicely his line is not at all what it is expected to be, thus he is spending the greater part of his time there.

From present indications the backfield will consist of Gaines Hill, Freddie Smith, George Seakman and Norman Coleman, the latter a freshman in high school on condition. The ability of Hill, Smith and Seakman is certain but from the way things look now Coleman may be the star of the team provided he continues his hard work. A mere let-up will mean the second string squad for any of the boys touted for starting roles.

Several other athletes will break into the backfield during the Lancaster game which will be played at night.

If Monday evening's drill is a criterion Billy Steele and Bill Robinson, who has been performing at tackle, will be at the wing positions; Kenny Hall and Willis Canup will play tackle; Skaggs and Cook will be at guards and Harmon will play center. Coach Heberholz has used several youths at center and has not been able to find one who completely fills the bill. It is possible Cook may be shifted to the snapper-back role but Coach Heberholz thinks Cook is about the best blocking guard he has so is reluctant to make the change.

Several alterations may be made before time to pack up the goods for the Lancaster journey. Word from Fairfield-co indicates the Lancaster team will be a tough nut to crack.

Stanton Jones will be the reliever.

Fights Tammany

What President Roosevelt thinks of the New York political situation may be judged by the fact that his close friend, Chief Justice Frederic M. Keen (above), of the Court of Special Sessions, has announced his support of the Fusionist ticket fighting Tammany in the municipal elections. Judge Keen also testified before the Grand Jury investigating charges linking Tammany leaders with known racketeers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Only yesterday he was an incredible young man who sold fish on Maxwell street and they were laughing because he would be in the same ring with Jack Sharkey, the ex-champion, but today they're talking about King Levinsky, the conqueror and master of this same Sharkey.

They're not laughing now. Instead some 25,000 customers who paid $53,000 to see the Kingfish do what he was not expected to do, are recounting the seven rounds that saw the Sharkey man, a little older, a little less resilient, pounded until it seemed he would collapse.

There was no doubt of the decision that moved the buffon of the Ghetto a little closer to where over it is that he is headed in the heavyweight prize fight business. There were no tears in the Sharkey man's eyes when it was over. Instead, he stood, with an understanding grin, his eyes focussed on the spectacle before him. It was not his night.

They came on late in the evening at Comiskey park. Sharkey, viewing the Kingfish as though he were something from a museum and Levinsky, the "poisonality" kid, moving with such fervor that you thought he was going to explode. There was the bell and Sharkey pranced blithely out to peck at the blubber over Levinsky's belt. Then it happened. The Kingfish was loose, swarming over the ex-champion with a fullside of left and rights.

ASHVILLE SCHOOL NEWS

The students are busy making and drawing various things for the Pumpkin Show Exhibit. It isn't very many weeks until they will be on display.

The following students in grade six were placed in the "E" athletic row the first week of school: Thelma Ray, Charlotte Courtright and Earl White.

Ashville high school received into it ranks this year two students from McClain high school at Greenfield, Ohio. They are Warren and Henry Steinbrook, a senior and sophomore respectively.

Incidentally, they are proving quite an asset to the football team as each has secured a position on the first eleven. Warren doing service in the backfield and Henry holding down the snapper-back back post. Warren has had some experience in the game as a substitute on "Red" Armstrong's team at Greenfield.

Ellan Six and William Miller, Walnut-twp students last year, and Leona Collard of Zanesville high school are other new Ashville high school students.

For morning exercises our teacher reads to us from a book named Abe Lincoln, The Promoter Boy. She reads a chapter every morning to us.

We have Monitors to take care of our room.

We have been writing pet stories. We are going to send them to the first and second grades.

The reporters from the fourth grade this week are: Mary Jane Higley, Joe Stanley and Richard Baum.

The teachers and students of the Ashville schools wish to thank Mr. Hott for the beautiful gladiolus which he presented to all the grade and high school rooms.

The eighth grade will use the Current Events magazine as a supplementary text in American History this year.

County Supt. Buchanan and County attendance Officer Duni were visitors in our school for a short time Friday.

The Manual training class under the direction of Mr. Martin is preparing an exhibit for the Circleville Pumpkin Show.

Members of the 2nd grade are collecting different kinds of rocks. We are having a rock exhibit.

Mrs. William Geron of Springfield will be the speaker at the first regular P. T. A. meeting of the school year which will be held at 8:00 p. m. Thursday of this week at the high school building.

The meeting will be followed by a social hour and a representative of each family attending is requested to bring sandwiches enough for the group; preferably of meat.

FAITH IN GOLD MINE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—Faith in the future of gold mining in the famous Cripple Creek district of Colorado, recently brought Lady May De Longacville De Eucy Smith from her home in Europe to aid her former husband, Frank Kurie, in the development of mining properties. Lady May and Eucy Smith divorced Kurie several years ago and later married a British subject.

The carry over of old wheat in the United States on July 1 was 386 million bushels, the largest on record and was 5 million bushels greater than the carryover on July 1, 1932.

Germany recently raised her tariff against food imports to $15 per hundredweight, in furtherance of her live-at-home campaign.

Gold Hoarding Deadline Passes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—About a half billion dollars in gold and gold certificates was outstanding from the treasury last night—the deadline for hoarders making returns of their holdings to the treasury.

Fifteen days will be given by the government for the return of the gold after which prosecutions will be started, according to attorney General Cummings.

The justice department will proceed against hoarders for failure to make returns where possible. In cases where returns are made but the holders of gold refuse to return the metal to the treasury prosecutions will be based on hoarding, officials said.

320 ARE RECORDED

At the last available date there were 320 hoarders on the department of justice list who refused to turn in $1,313,500 in gold. Cummings said this number would be substantially reduced before the department started prosecutions. Prosecutions may be avoided, officials intimated, by turning in gold even though this action was taken at the last minute.

An indication as to the amount of gold that has been turned in as a result of the government's campaign was shown by federal reserve statistics. Gold reserves on Sept. 13 were $3,590,455,000 as compared with $2,892,083,000, the low point of March 1. The gold reserves are now higher than at any time in history.

MAY END GOLD

It was generally believed the government intends to impound gold permanently and cease its coinage. Officials pointed out that the use of gold as a medium of circulation is extravagant and serves no useful purpose. On the other hand, in the treasury and reserve banks it forms the basis for issuance of currency.

METAL BOOKS

ROME—Filippo Tommaso Marinetti, founder of the futurist movement, and a dynamic character in spite of his 55 years, has started a new style in book production. His latest volume of poems is being published—in metal. And on metal are the illustrations, done by the ultra futurist painter, Tullio d'Albissale.

SURPRISED

William Wallace McDowell, former governor of Montana, registered considerable surprise when he was visiting the World's Fair, that he had been appointed United States minister to the Irish Free State. He has been a friend of President De Valera for many years.

BLAZE CAUSES

Smoke and were taken to Lima Memorial Hospital for treatment. They were Mrs. In. Bogardus, 68, and Mrs. Lucille Walters, 26.

The three other women, one of whom was an invalid, were rescued. They were Mrs. Alice Reed, 62; Mrs. Sue Davies, 68, and Mrs. Thelma Rudolf, 22.

The fire was discovered at about 2:30 o'clock this morning by Dr. J. C. Newton, a dentist, who was working late on a laboratory experiment. Newton, a former athletic coach at Ohio Northern University, said he noticed smoke and upon investigating, discovered the fire, rapidly gaining headway.

Working with Dr. Newton was Dr. E. L. Maurer. Summoning assistance from the fire department the two dentists set out to warn the five women occupants of the building.

Two score of firemen answered the general alarm and rushed to the scene of the conflagration. All firemen who were off duty at the time were hastily mobilized to assist in fighting the flames.

Investigation to determine the cause of the fire was expected to be started by fire department officials immediately.

CLASH KILLS FOUR

VIENNA, Sept. 15.—Austria's grave political crisis reached the violent stage today with a series of clashes between opposing factions, taking a toll of four lives.

Three Nazis were shot and killed and five seriously wounded in a pitched battle at Wollseck, upper Austria, involving Nazis, Heimwehren (Fascists) and police.

TWO AGENCIES WORKING FOR PROTECTION OF CONSUMERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The agencies through which the legion of consumers now turned into actual buyers throughout the country will get protection from unwarranted price raising are exerting themselves in a manner to gain wide approval from many "civic and women's organizations. In the NRA the Consumers' Advisory Board fights valiantly any suggestion at code hearings that bears upon unfair price fixing. Inasmuch as codes of some of the industries are handled by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the same zealous care is taken by the consumer's counsel of A. A. A. to safeguard the farm recovery program from being jeopardized by unreasonable prices.

The same steps which were taken to prevent gouging on bread prices from offsetting farm benefits are being followed in checking the price structure under codes of fair competition already in operation. The counselor's staff of economists has completed the first phase of a study of textile prices, summarized as follows:

1. Examples of apparently unreasonable profit-taking have been detected.

2. Vast majority of the trade, however, deserve praise for fair play.

3. Wide disparity exists in billing merchants for increases above contract prices attributable to processing taxes and employment costs.

4. Highly competitive nature of retail textile business, plus willingness of merchants to cooperate, has afforded consumers strong protection against price gouging.

5. Instances found in which manufacturers voluntarily absorbed part of processing tax cost.

6. Increase in farmers' purchasing power, still far short of A. A. A.'s goal, nevertheless reflecting itself in improved demands for cotton goods.

Proceeding on the basis of the price increases being the priming charges to get industry back on full time, the Consumers' Advisory Board of NRA is exercising due caution in reaching conclusions as to whether retail costs are exorbitant. In very many cases there is evidence that the President's admonition to business management to "give first consideration to the improvement of operating figures by greatly increased sales to be expected from the rising power of a public" is not being followed.

Through the thousands of local business men are being reminded that this course defeats the purpose of the recovery program, for one thing, and that it is extremely poor judgment for another. The President's statement on signing NRA continued, "this is good economics and good business." Merchants as well as manufacturers are being told that the goal is resumption of normal conditions, and profiteering is no more permissible than is racketeering.

Besides being a guardian against gouging, the Board is educating consumers through the multitude of organizations with which it has established contact, in budgeting for the family and in quality buying.

CIVIL SERVICE PLANNING EXAMS.

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows:

Mimeograph Operator, $1,260 a year, less a deduction of not to exceed 15 per cent as a measure of economy and a retirement deduction of 3 1-2 per cent, departmental service, Washington, D. C., and field service. Applicants must show that they have had at least three months of full-time experience within the past three years, for which they received compensation, as mimeograph operator.

Agricultural Radio Program Manager, $3,800 to $4,600 a year, less a deduction of not to exceed 15 per cent as a measure of economy and a retirement deduction of 3 1-2 per cent, Office of Information, Department of Agriculture, San Francisco, Calif.

Principal Botanist, $5,600 a year, less a deduction of not to exceed 15 per cent as a measure of economy and a retirement deduction of 3 1-2 per cent, Office of Experiment Stations, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

All states except Delaware, Iowa, Maryland, New Hampshire, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia have received less than their share of appointments in the appointed departmental service at Washington, D. C.

Full information may be obtained from Leslie L. Pontius, Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners, at the post office or customhouse in this city.

since the fall of 1930 when he was defeated for the senate by Robert J. Bulkley, Cleveland Democrat, who came out openly as a wet. McCulloch went to the senate on appointment by former Governor Myers Y. Cooper upon the death of Senator Frank B. Willis, of Delaware. Wife of Banker Halts Kidnaping

Flees Upstairs as Gunmen Threaten to Fire; Men Run Before Police Arrive.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 19.—Failure of an attempt by five gunmen to kidnap Milton G. Newman, wealthy banker, from his home in the night was credited today to the courage of the financier's wife.

Instead of obeying the kidnappers' commands to stand still Mrs. Newman ran to the second floor of their home and screamed to her sister, Mrs. Rosa Kahn, to telephone for police.

The five gunmen fled before a police squad arrived. Newman answered the front door bell last night and found a young man facing him with drawn pistol.

"This is a kidnaping," said the gunman as he forced the banker back into the house. Four other men entered and were about to seize Newman when his wife came down stairs.

Newman told authorities he had received no threats nor had he any intimation that he had been marked as a kidnap victim.

BRAND RESIGNS SUPER CABINET

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Resignation of Charles J. Brand as co-administrator of the Agricultural act came as a bomb-shell in Washington today, marking the first major break in the super-cabinet in charge of recovery.

He asked leave to return Oct. 1. to his former duties in private life as executive and treasurer of the National Fertilizer association, from which he had been loaned to the government at the request of President Roosevelt, Secretary Wallace and George Peek, administrator of the agricultural recovery law.

WICHITA BANKER VICTIM OF CRASH

DAYTON, Sept. 19.—J. H. Stewart, 79, vice president of the First National Bank at Wichita, Kans., was dead today from injuries received when the automobile in which he was riding plunged off the road at a sharp curve near Vandalla and overturned.

Mrs. Stewart, 73, received serious injuries in the accident and John Craig, 27, a hitch-hiker from Drexel Hills, Pa., who was riding with the Stewarts, suffered a crushed arm.

The United Kingdom, which until 1931 was a free trading country, recently announced a further reduction in the import quota of pork allowed the United States.

volume or indefinite inflation can result.

First, if prices are fixed and purchasing power lags, there is no way for the merchant to save himself since he would have to continue to hold surplus stocks.

Second, in such a case the government could resort to progressive currency inflation which would have the effect of temporarily raising purchasing power but would cause a continued increase in prices.

Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I am so nervous it seems as though I should fly. My nerves are all on edge. I wish I were dead. . . . How often have we heard these expressions from some woman who has become so tired and run-down that her nerves can no longer stand the strain. . . . No woman should allow herself to drift into this condition if she can help herself. She should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. For nearly sixty years women have taken this wonderful tonic to give them renewed strength and vigor. . . . Out of every 100 women who report to us that they are benefited by this medicine, 99 buy a bottle from your drug-jet today . . . and watch the results."

SUPPORT YOUR RAILROAD

THE development of hard-surfaced highways paralleling railroads and the constantly increasing diversion of traffic, both passenger and freight, from the railways to carriers operating on the public highways, are the chief factors in causing the nation's railroads to abandon trackage at a greater rate than ever before. Here is the record:

TRACAGE ABANDONED

1930 694 miles
1931 795 miles
1932 1,452 miles
1933 . six months . 1,305 miles

The abandonment of railway mileage has disastrous effects, ramifying throughout the industry and commerce of the country. It means:

1. Unemployment among railway employees;
 2. Drastic curtailment of purchases of railway materials and supplies, and in turn, unemployment for those who work in the thousands of mills and factories which supply the railroads' needs; and;
 3. Tremendous losses in taxes to national, state, county and local governments (taxes which must be shifted to the shoulders of the already overburdened taxpayer).
- Coming closer home the Norfolk and Western Railway was recently granted conditional authority by the Interstate Commerce Commission to abandon 54 miles of a branch line in West Virginia. The line is paralleled for more than 40 miles by good or fair highways. For years its operation has resulted in steadily increasing deficits. In 1932 taxes on this line amounted to approximately $69,000 nearly $20,000 more than the total revenues accruing from the operation of the branch.

The Norfolk and Western has grown up with the territory it serves. The railroad has spent millions of dollars to aid in its development. It maintains a department of experts whose entire time is devoted to the expansion and prosperity of industry and agriculture. Certainly then the Norfolk and Western, or any other railroad for that matter, has not and will not abandon any portion of its line in any territory where continued operation is justified and where there is sound prospect of future development.

These matters vitally affect the economic and social welfare of every citizen. Therefore, the Norfolk and Western Railway cannot urge too strongly that you support your railroad and that you give serious consideration to these facts, when distributing your traffic and formulating your views on transportation matters.

Not like any other cigarette

The United States Government granted Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company the right to use "Chesterfield" for cigarettes

THIS means that the Chesterfield formula—that is, the leaf and the manufacturing formula—is different from that of other cigarettes.

For a cigarette to be milder and to taste better, it has to have in it ripe, mild, mellow tobacco, and the right quantity of the right kinds of Turkish tobacco. Then the cigarette has to be made right.

You can prove for yourself that Chesterfields are not like other cigarettes. They're milder . . . they taste better.

Oil, Gerard Swope, head of General Electric, and Louis E. Kirstein, merchant prince of Boston. These men, their friends say, are betraying their own class.

Some of the critics have gone so far as to intimate that unless the Big Three change their attitude and take an anti-labor stand they will withdraw business from their firms.

Teagle, Swope and Kirstein are giving their time and labor to the government entirely without compensation. They are to be found in stuffy little NRA offices from early morning until late at night.

General Hugh Johnson characterizes them as "pillar stones" of his organization.

C. R. A. Everett, Wash.—Senator Bone made a very decided impression during his first session in Congress. The opinion among his colleagues, both on the Republican and Democratic side, is that he is one of the ablest newcomers in the Senate.

G. H. Galax, Va. Rixie Smith, Senator Glass's secretary, is generally accepted as the dean of senatorial secretaries.

L. H. Des Moines, Iowa: Edward F. McGrady is both Assistant Secretary of Labor and Labor Adviser to General Johnson, but he draws only one pay check. He is paid slightly over $6,000 as Assistant Secretary of Labor.

McGrady made a sacrifice to accept the Labor post. He was getting considerably more as an NRA administrator.

C. C. C. Philadelphia, Pa.—Your complaint concerning the Pennsylvania Railroad's alleged violation of I. C. C. rules governing interstate freight waybill has been laid before Commissioner Horner, who said the matter would be investigated.

C. S. Lakeland, Fla.—The Mercury Corporation rents the army supply base at Newark, N. J., for $1 a year plus a percentage of the net profits. You can get full particulars from the War Department.

W. A. B. Muskogee, Okla.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has been trying to curb the commodiside of the street, and almost directly opposite, was the branch office of another evening paper. Over the way one morning there appeared a freshly recruited member of the staff of the opposition sheet. The newcomer was a tall Englishman. I think it was this man's patronizing manner when he met Stowe that afternoon, rather than his monochrome or his accent, which immediately aroused Stowe's part an antagonism for the Britisher whose name, let us say, was Slocum. On the following day, Stowe called up the opposition office on the telephone and in a disguised voice said he wished to speak to Slocum.

"This is the city desk downtown," he stated when Slocum had answered. "We've just got a tip that the Duke of Devonshire is stopping at the Hotel Durham two or three blocks from where you are now. Hurry right 'round to the Durham and insist on seeing the duke and get a good snappy interview with him."

Stowe rang off and immediately rang up the Hotel Durham and asked for the proprietor, a brawny Kentuckian who had lately come up from the South.

"Is that you, So-and-so?" inquired Stowe. "Well, this is Cassidy, manager of the Hotel Madrid, speaking. There's a crazy Englishman making the rounds with a mania that he has to see the Duke of Devonshire. He came in about ten minutes ago and asked for the Duke and when the room-clerk told him no such person was here he started the biggest rough-house you ever saw—almost wrecked the place. It took three husky porters to throw him out. After they'd thrown him out and as he was going away, one of the porters heard him muttering to himself that he was bound for your hotel next. He's a tall sandy-haired chap—wears a monocle and talks like the boiled-down essence of Piccadilly. If I were you I'd have a couple of strong-arm chaps waiting at the desk and the moment he asked for the Duke of Devonshire I'd let that be the cue for them to grab him and throw him out in the street."

"Thanks," said the Kentuckian. "Don't worry—we'll be organized for him when he comes."

Fifteen minutes later, the battered and disheveled Slocum dragged himself back into his office to report by telephone to a perplexed superior that if these barbarous practices existed generally in America he intended to resign his position and return overseas to a civilized clime upon the next steamer.

You'll Be Thankful For Having Gas Heat

Cool nights and mornings make it necessary to have a source of quick heat in the home. Not cold enough to fire up the central heating plant, but cool enough to require some warmth for general comfort and protection—a situation that is met in an ideal way by an efficient gas radiant heater with its instant glow of cheery, healthful heat at the touch of a match. With a Humphrey gas radiant heater, any room can be made comfortable when the temperature drops suddenly.

Attractive—Yet Economical

Modern Humphrey radiant heaters are beautifully designed and are styled to harmonize with various types of home furnishings. Smart, attractive—yet reasonably priced—these heaters are unusually economical to operate. There are models to meet your needs in every part of the home. Right now is the time to install one or more of these handy heaters. Convenient terms, if you desire.

ANSWERS, QUERIES CONCERNING NRA

Q. My wife and I run a small auto repair shop in town of less than 1,000, and we hire an apprentice to help us. He is 25, married, and we pay him $3 per week. Can we work him more than the maximum hours allowed in PRA? A. Yes; towns of under 2,500 do not have to observe the maximum-hour provision, but you must raise the pay of your apprentice not less than 20 percent.

Q. How many hours may I work carpenters per day in my shop? A. Maximum of eight per day. The President's Agreement, reads: "The undersigned agrees with the President (par. 3) not to employ any factory or mechanical worker or artisan more than a maximum week of 35 hours until December 31, 1933, but with the right to work a maximum week of 40 hours for any six weeks within this period and not to employ any worker more than eight hours in any one day."

Q. In an industry having two groups of manufacturers, one selling direct, the other to retailers, may each group formulate codes? A. Yes, but NRA will coordinate them under a single code, if possible.

Jack Roebuck has returned from a visit in Detroit, Michigan.

Lawrence Fuller and Bill McKinney, of near Darbyville, left Monday for Athens where they will attend Ohio university.

Miss Helen West left Monday for Athens to enter her sophomore year at Ohio university after spending the summer months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry West, W. Main-st.

Jack Roebuck has returned from a visit in Detroit, Michigan.

Just because we're always telling you about the nice bouquets that folks hand out to us don't think that we never get any "alley bouquets." We just don't tell you about that kind. Another lovely bouquet was handed the "editor" of RTT the other day. Our friends and customers, Mr. and Mrs. B—, up in the northwest section of the county, told us that they greatly enjoy reading our RTT. We're just real pleased to know that folks do like to read our little "bragging." We get a kick out of writing them, we assure you.

The folks mentioned above are users of Estate Heatrola and have been for the past four winters. The fact that we are still friends must be evidence sufficient to prove that they are satisfied users.

A shipment of felt-base floor-covering, consisting of rugs and yard goods, arrived just a couple of days ago. Talk about pretty patterns! You should see them. Early in the summer, we sold a Perfection Ivanhoe oil-burning cook-stove to Mrs. McN—, out in the east end of Roundtown. She was in a couple of days ago and told us how well pleased she was with her purchase. To tell you the honest facts about these kero-sene stoves, we've never heard a customer complain about them. All users have been perfectly satisfied.

Speaking of cooking appliances, Mrs. G— informed us last week that she had used her Pyrofax gas range for cooking, baking, and canning and that one tank of the gas lasted her through three months of this service. And she is delighted with her Pyrofax range and outfit! Just ask her. Even though her home is not on a natural gas main, she has the same advantage of gas cooking that is enjoyed by city dwellers.

Lovers of beautifully designed, finished, and constructed furniture should see that Duncan Phyffe suite that came in last Friday. However, what's the use to tell you about it? By the time that you receive this copy of RTT, a family in this city will be enjoying it in their dining room. However, we'll soon have another one, and will then tell you about it.

For those wishing a breakfast set, we have just received a mighty set in green oak, extension table and four "Dutch" type chairs. To appreciate its beauty, strength, and comfort, you should not only see it, but you should sit on one of the chairs. In street parlance, "it's a bird."

Your linoleum will last longer and be more easily cleaned if you keep it coated with our linoleum lacquer.
